ОТ АВТОРОВ

Предлагаемое вашему вниманию издание 2009 года – новая переработанная версия учебного пособия English Grammar: Reference and Practice. Наше пособие было создано на основе классических работ по грамматике английского языка, изданных в России, а также учебников британских и американских авторов – приверженцев коммуникативного подхода в обучении языку. Однако многолетний опыт работы в аудитории подсказал ряд изменений и дополнений, которые, не нарушая структуру пособия, значительно повышают его эффективность.

Прежде всего учебное пособие дополнено новыми коммуникативными упражнениями, которые предполагают создание и применение грамматической модели в соответствующих речевых ситуациях. Чтобы обеспечить психологическую комфортность процесса обучения, сокращены длинные, тяжеловесные упражнения. Ряд упражнений снабжен иллюстрациями, что также делает его user friendly.

Уточнены и расширены некоторые теоретические главы пособия. Новое издание включает 16 тематических разделов, в которых приводятся общие сведения по каждой теме и объясняются особые случаи употребления грамматических моделей. Цель данного учебного пособия – изложить в доступной форме основные особенности грамматического строя английского языка, необходимые для практического использования.

В основе структуры пособия лежат два принципа: сопоставление грамматических моделей русского и английского языков и дифференциация сходных (для носителей русского языка), но различающихся по сути, грамматических структур английского языка. Лучшему усвоению материала должны способствовать таблицы, схемы и модели, систематизирующие материал разделов.

Данное издание предназначено для учащихся школ и гимназий, а также для студентов неязыковых вузов с углубленным изучением английского языка. Оно может быть успешно использовано для работы со студентами любой формы обучения и уровня языковой подготовки, поскольку подробные объяснения снабжены большим количеством примеров, таблиц и моделей, закрепляемых в разнообразных упражнениях. К большинству упражнений прилагаются ответы-ключи, изданные отдельной книгой The Keys. Благодаря этому наше учебное пособие также подходит для самостоятельной работы.

В новой редакции пособия свыше 800 упражнений, большинство из них выполнено в виде «рабочей тетради». Упражнения располагаются по принципу нарастания языковых трудностей и предназначены для студентов начинающих (А), продолжающих (В) и продвинутых (С) групп.

В течение 15 лет материал пособия успешно использовался в различных целевых программах, при обучении студентов с разным уровнем языковой подготовки.

2. "There + be" Construction

I. We use the there + be construction when talking about the existence or presence of people, things, etc. in a particular place. This construction has the meaning «есть», «имеется», «находится», «существует». The verb to be in this construction can be used in different tense forms:

there is/are there was/were there will be there has/have been there had been

- ☐ There are many French books in this library.
- ☐ There was a meeting at the club yesterday.
- ☐ There will be a good crop in this region this year.
- ☐ There hasn't been any rain for some days.

Word Order

there + be + subject + adverbial modifier of place adverbial modifier of time

The corresponding Russian sentences begin with adverbial modifiers.

Russian	English
В моей комнате есть (имеется) телефон.	There is a telephone in my room .
В саду (имеется) много яблонь.	There are many apple-trees in the garden .
Вчера в институте было собрание.	There was a meeting at the Institute yesterday .

The verb to be in this construction can be used with modal verbs (can, may, must, ought to):

- ☐ There must be a dictionary on the shelf.
- ☐ There can be no doubt about it.
- ☐ There ought to be more books on the subject in our library.

We can also use some other verbs after there – to live, to exist, to stand, to lie, etc.:

- ☐ There lived an old doctor in the village.
- ☐ There exist different opinions on this problem.

If the subjects are of different number, the predicate agrees with the subject that stands first:

- ☐ There is a table and six chairs in the room.
- ☐ There were some books and a dictionary on the table.

II. We can also use this construction when it does not refer to a place:

a) there + be is used to introduce new information:

- ☐ There will be a party tonight.
- ☐ There have been two telephone calls for you.

b) to talk about a number or amount:

- ☐ There are forty of us, I think.
- ☐ There was a great deal of anger about the decision.

Interrogative and Negative Forms

- ☐ Is there a telephone in your room?
 - No, there isn't.
 - No, there is no telephone in my room.
- ☐ Was there a meeting at the Institute?
 - No, there wasn't.
- ☐ Will there be many people there?
 - No, there won't.
 - No, there won't be any people there.

Mind that the sentences: "There is a book on the table". («На столе книга».) and "The book is on the table". («Книга на столе».) have a different meaning. The first one shows that there is something ("a book") in that place, the second one shows that the object ("the book") we now are speaking about or looking for is in that place ("on the table").

It and There as Impersonal Subjects

In many kinds of English sentences we use the word it or the word there in the subject position. These are usually "impersonal" sentences – sentences where there is no natural subject.

Impersonal there is used, as it was shown above, to say that something exists in a particular place, to introduce new information, etc.

Impersonal it is used:

- when talking about the weather :	<input type="checkbox"/> It was a nice day yesterday.

5.2 The Past Simple Tense

(See List of Irregular Verbs, Appendix 2)

Spelling and Pronunciation Rules

Regular verbs form the Past Simple and Participle II by adding -ed to the stem of the verb, or only -d if the stem of the verb ends in -e:

to want – wanted	to unite – united to open – opened	to live – lived

The pronunciation of -ed (-d) depends on the sound preceding it. It is pronounced:

[ɪd] after t, d: wanted ['wɒntɪd], landed ['lændɪd];
 [d] after voiced consonants except d and after vowels: opened ['ɒpənd], played [pleɪd];
 [t] after voiceless consonants except t: worked [wɜːkt].

The following spelling rules should be observed:

- a. Final y is changed into i before the addition of -ed if it is preceded by a consonant:
 - to carry – carried
 - to reply – replied
- y remains unchanged if it is preceded by a vowel:
 - to enjoy – enjoyed

- b. If a verb ends in a consonant preceded by a short stressed vowel, the final consonant is doubled:
- | | | |
|--------------------------|--------------------------|------------------------------|
| to stop – stopped | to sob – sobbed | to submit – submitted |
| to plan – planned | to stir – stirred | |
- final r is doubled if it is preceded by a stressed vowel:
- | | | |
|------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| to occ Ur – occurred | to pref Er – preferred | to ref Er – referred |
|------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
- final r is not doubled when preceded by a diphthong:
- | | |
|-------------------------------------|--|
| to appe ar – appeared | |
|-------------------------------------|--|
- final l is doubled if it is preceded by a short vowel, stressed or unstressed:
- | | |
|--------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| to comp el – compelled | to quar el – quarrelled |
|--------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|

AFFIRMATIVE	NEGATIVE	INTERROGATIVE
I/he worked/wrote	I/he did not work/write	Did I/he work/write?
	I/he didn't work/write

The Past Simple may denote:

- An action performed in the past:

- A succession of past actions:

USED TO + Infinitive («раньше», «когда-то», «бывало»)	BE USED TO + Noun/Gerund («привыкнуть»)
Used to + Infinitive refers to habitual actions in the past, it cannot be followed by a noun (or a gerund): <input type="checkbox"/> When I was in England, I used to eat a big breakfast. Used to is a fixed idiom and is not used in any other tense.	The phrase is parallel in structure to be interested in, and it is possible to put a noun after to: <input type="checkbox"/> I'm used to his curious ways. <input type="checkbox"/> I'm used to hearing about the odd things he does. The verb to be in to be used to can be used in any appropriate tense. Be used to suggests familiarity through a repetition of the activity or occurrence; it does not state the existence of a habit as such.

8.2 The Present Perfect and the Past Simple

a) Do not use the Present Perfect (I have done) when you are talking about a finished time in the past (for example: last Tuesday, seven years ago, in 1995, when I was a student).

Use the Past Simple:

- ☐ I lost my English book yesterday. (not "has lost")
- ☐ Did you see the football match on television last night?
- ☐ Father retired from his job a year ago.
- ☐ I swam in the lake when I was a child.

To ask when something happened, use the Past Simple Tense:

- ☐ What time did they start? (not "have they started")
- ☐ When was he born? (not "has he been born")

COMPARE:

- ☐ I have lost my English book. (The Present Perfect)

Here I am not thinking of the past action; I am thinking of the present result of the action: I am without the English book now.

- ☐ I lost my English book yesterday. (The Past Simple)

Here I am thinking of the action in the past. I do not say whether I am still without the book.

b) Now compare these sentences:

The Present Perfect (I have done)

- ☐ I've seen Margaret today.
Today is a period of time which continues up to the present. It is not a finished time.
So we use the Present Perfect.

The Past Simple (I did)

- ☐ I saw Margaret yesterday.
Yesterday is a finished time in the past.
So we use the Past Simple.

today

past — (unfinished time) — present

- ☐ I haven't had holidays this year.
- ☐ Have you spoken to Jill this morning?
(It is still morning).
- ☐ Have you been ill recently?
- ☐ Brian has lived in Ireland for 6 years
(He still lives there).
- ☐ I have never ridden a horse (in my life).

The Present Perfect always has a connection with the present.

yesterday

past — (finished time) — present

- ☐ I didn't have holidays last year.
- ☐ Did you speak to Jill this morning?
(It is afternoon now).
- ☐ Were you ill last week?
- ☐ Brian lived in Wales for 10 years
(He no longer lives there).
- ☐ I didn't ride when I was on holiday last summer.

The Past Simple tells us only about the past.

8.3 The Past Perfect Tense

AFFIRMATIVE	NEGATIVE	INTERROGATIVE
I had worked	I had not worked	Had I worked?

I'd worked

I hadn't worked

The Past Perfect Tense denotes an action completed before a certain moment in the past. It is often used with the preposition by («к»).

- ☐ He had finished his work < when I called him.
by 5 o'clock yesterday.

When we have two past references, we often need the Past Perfect for the event that happened first to avoid ambiguity.

Past Perfect Past Simple

- ☐ When we came to the station, the train left. (i.e. at that moment)
☐ When we came to the station, the train had already left.
(i.e. before we got there)

We often introduce the Past Perfect Tense with conjunctions when, after, as soon as, by the time that:

- ☐ When/after the guests had left, she closed the door and went upstairs.

NB! The Past Simple is used with the conjunctions after, before, when, if the succession of actions should be expressed.

- ☐ He had a short rest before he went on with his work.
☐ When I wrote the letter, I posted it.

The Past Perfect is not used to denote a succession of actions. In this case the Past Simple is used.

Past Simple

MODAL VERBS

1. Definition

Modal verbs are used to show the speaker's attitude towards the action. We use them with other verbs. There are 10 modals: can, may, must, shall, should, will, would, ought to, need, dare. Modal verbs are not "complete" verbs. They are called defective because they lack (except dare and need) compound tenses, the passive voice, the verbals and have some other peculiarities:

1. We cannot use them as to-infinitives: to go, to speak.
2. We do not use the to-infinitives after modals:
☐ You mustn't phone now. It's late.
3. There is no -(e)s in the 3rd person singular:
☐ The boss can see you now.

In their first use modal verbs have basic meanings which are given in dictionaries:

can/could – ability

☐ I can lift 25 kg / I can type.

may/might – permission

☐ You may leave early.

shall/will/would – prediction

☐ It will rain soon.

should/ought to – duty

☐ You should/ought to help the old.

must – total obligation

☐ You must be quiet.

needn't – no obligation

☐ You needn't wait.

The second use of modal verbs is to express degrees of certainty or uncertainty.

QUESTIONS AND NEGATIVES

Can you play chess?

Must I go there now?

You shouldn't miss your classes.

I can't understand a word.

THE CONTRACTED FORMS

can't [kɑ:nt]

oughtn't [ɔ:tnt]

couldn't [kudnt]

mayn't [meint]

needn't [ni:dnt]

mustn't [masnt]

shouldn't [ʃudnt]

2. "Can"

Forms and Meanings

MODAL VERB	PRESENT		PAST	FUTURE
Equivalent
can to be able to...	can am is are	able to...	could was were	able to... will be able to...

In Its First Meaning Can Expresses:

1. Mental, physical, circumstantial ability	Can you lift this box? He can solve the most difficult problems. They can get there by bus.
2. Permission можете + инф.	You can go now. You can play with the boys here.
3. Request	Can you get me a glass of water? (informal, we know the person very well) Could you get me a glass of water? (more polite, more formal, used in more distant relationships)
4. Prohibition нельзя + инф.	You can't cross the street here.

NOTES:

1. We use could/couldn't to describe "general ability" in the past:

- ☐ I could run very fast when I was a boy.
- ☐ I could read when I was 5.

BUT if we mean that someone managed to do something in the particular situation, you have to use:

was/were able to do smth (not could)

- ☐ The fire spread throughout the building very quickly but everyone was able to escape. (= managed to escape)
- ☐ They didn't want to come with us at first but in the end we were able (= managed) to persuade them.

was/were able to = managed («смог», «удалось»)

The negative couldn't is possible in all situations:

- ☐ My grandfather couldn't swim.
- ☐ We tried hard but we couldn't persuade them.

2. We use could (do) in a number of ways:

- a) it is a past of can (do), expressing general ability in the past:
 - ☐ My grandfather could speak five languages.
- b) sometimes we use could to speak about possible future actions. In this case it has a present or future meaning:
 - ☐ What shall we do this evening?
We could go to the cinema.
Мы могли бы пойти в кино.
 - ☐ When you go to New York, you could stay with Linda.
...ты могла бы остановиться у Линды.

In this meaning the past of could (do) is could have (done). We use could have (done) to say that we had the ability or opportunity to do something but did not do it:

- ☐ We didn't go out last night. We could have gone to the cinema but we decided to stay at home.
...могли бы пойти в кино, но решили остаться дома.
- ☐ Why did you stay at a hotel in New York? You could have stayed with Linda.

3. We often use can + verb in place of the Simple Present with the verbs of perception:

- ☐ I can see a bird in that tree. (= I see)
- ☐ Can you see it? (Do you see it?)
- ☐ I looked up but couldn't see anything. (= didn't see)
- ☐ I can smell something burning.
- ☐ I can understand what he means.
- ☐ I couldn't understand what he said.
- ☐ I can't see anyone.

3. "May"

Forms and Meanings

MODAL VERB Equivalent	PRESENT	PAST	FUTURE
may to be allowed to...	may am is are allowed to...	might was were allowed to...	— will be allowed to...

We Use May/Might:

1. to ask permission / give permission (можно)	May I borrow your umbrella, please? You may see the garden if you like.
2. to talk about possible happenings in the future (возможно, может быть)	I'm not sure where to go for my holiday. I may go to Italy. (= perhaps I will go) The weather forecast is not very good. It might rain this afternoon. (= perhaps it will rain)
3. to talk about possible plans (могу, возможно)	I am going to Italy in July. (for sure) I may/might go to Italy in July. (it is possible)
4. reproach (only might) (мог бы)	You are becoming forgetful. You might have reminded me about it.

NOTES:

- We also use can/could to ask or refuse permission.
Can is the commonest and most informal:
☐ You're visiting your friend and want to make some coffee. You say:
Can I make myself a cup of coffee?
Could is more polite than can:
☐ Could I make a phone call, please?
- Permission/prohibition in other tenses than the Present or Future.
May is not a "complete verb", so we use to be allowed/to be permitted to make up for the missing tenses:
☐ The children were allowed to watch TV last night.
☐ He has just been allowed to go home after 3 hours at the police station.
☐ His doctor hadn't allowed him to take any exercises in the year before he died.
- We refer to "some other authority" that gives/refuses permission like this:
☐ You are allowed to/not allowed to _____
☐ You are permitted to/not permitted to _____ ☐ You mustn't/you are forbidden to _____
We can ask for permission like this:
☐ Can/could/may/might I borrow your umbrella?

- ☐ Do you think I could/might borrow your umbrella?
- ☐ I wonder if I could/might borrow your umbrella?
4. Might instead of may is used because of the Sequence of Tenses:
- ☐ "May I read the letter?" – He asked if he might read the letter.

The Negative Answer to the Question Containing a Request for Permission

1. No, don't, please. I'm afraid not.	Don't is less strict than may not . It is rather asking somebody not to do something .
2. No, you may not. (нет, нельзя = не смей)	Actually prohibiting something.
3. No, you must not. (запрещено, нельзя)	Means that it is not the person who prohibits the action but there are facts, rules or circumstances prohibiting it.
4. No, you can't. I'm sorry, you can't.	It denotes the absence of possibility depending on circumstances, rules, laws, etc.

3.1 May – to Express Uncertainty, Strong Doubt

In its second meaning may/might is used to express uncertainty, supposition implying strong doubt. We use may/might when we want to indicate that we are not certain whether something is possible but we think it is. May denoting uncertainty is used with all forms of the Infinitive.

NOTES:

1. There is no important difference between may and might in this meaning. Sometimes might expresses greater uncertainty than may:

- ☐ He may/might be in his office now. (I'm not sure.)
- ☐ I can't find my bag anywhere. – You might have left it in the shop.

2. We can express uncertainty, strong doubt about negative statements:

«Он, возможно, не...»

- ☐ He may not know about it. – Он, может быть, не знает об этом.
- ☐ He may not have noticed you in that crowd. – Он, возможно, не заметил тебя в толпе.

Hi,

I know that you work in pizza delivery, don't you? I want to get some information about it, cos I need to save up some money. So, I want you to answer some of my questions.

First, is it necessary to pass physical examination? If yes, where is it possible to do? Am I allowed to work if I don't pass it?

The problem is that I don't have a car. But as far as I know it is recommended to have your own car, am I right?

Is it possible to work only 2–3 hours a day? I will be disappointed if this Pizza Hut has long working hours.
How about tips? Is it possible to get any?
Looking forward to your answer,
Mike

Modal Verbs

	4. Lions and tigers can be seen in zoos.

	8. I couldn't use my car last week, it was being repaired .
	9. This room hasn't been swept for a fortnight.
	10. He said the newspaper had been thrown away.

2. Uses of the Passive Voice Peculiar to the English Language

- We use the passive when it is not so important (or unknown) who or what did the action:
 - ☐ My article was published yesterday.
 - ☐ Rome wasn't built in one day.
 - ☐ The origin of the Universe will never be explained.
- It's wrong to consider the passive to be another way of expressing a sentence in the active voice. We use it only when we don't know or don't want to say who did it:
 - ☐ Helen likes English. (But not "English is liked by Helen". It sounds funny in English).
- Only the verbs which take an object can go into the passive. Intransitive verbs can't be used in the passive voice. They are as follows:
 - to fly, to arrive
 - to be, to become
 - to have, to lack, to possess, to consist, to belong
 - to hold, to suit, to resemble, to fit
 - to appear, to seem, to come, to go, to last
 - ☐ The hall holds 500 people.
 - ☐ They have a nice house.
 - ☐ My shoes don't fit me.
 - ☐ Sylvia resembles a Greek goddess.
- There are sentences in the active having a passive meaning:
 - ☐ This shirt irons well.

- ☐ Your book reads well.
- ☐ This coat will wear a lifetime.

5. If you want to say who did it or what caused the action, use by or with. BY – with animated things and elements, WITH – for instruments, tools, weapons, materials.

- ☐ The house was built by my grandfather.
- ☐ It was destroyed by fire.
- ☐ The room was filled with smoke.
- ☐ The wood can be cut with a knife.

6. We use the Infinitive after modal verbs and a number of other verbs. The Passive Infinitive is to be done/to have been done:

- ☐ I want to be left alone.
- ☐ The music could be heard far away.
- ☐ My bicycle has disappeared. It must have been stolen.

7. If it is possible to make two different passive sentences, it is more usual for the passive sentence to begin with the person:

- ☐ Ann wasn't offered the job.
- ☐ The job wasn't offered to Ann. (seldom used)

Study the Pattern

8. Some verbs can be used only in the following type of passive constructions:

- ☐ The news was announced to everybody.
- ☐ Everything will be explained to you later.

9. Passive constructions with the verbs to advise, to allow, to ask, to award, to deny, to forbid, to forgive, to grant, to offer, to order, to pay, to promise, to refuse, to show, to teach, to tell, etc. present some difficulties. In English the subject of such constructions corresponds to the Russian indirect object. The centre of a passive construction in English is not changed. Pay attention to the following difference:

	ACTIVE	PASSIVE
Russian	Я просил ... Я сказал ему ...	Меня попросили ... Мне сказали ...
English	I asked ... I told him ...	I was asked ... I was told ...

- ☐ He was given a ten days' leave. – Ему дали десятидневный отпуск.
- ☐ Have you been shown the documents? – Вам показали документы?
- ☐ They were told to wait. – Им велели подождать.

10. The verbs which take prepositional objects can form passive constructions of the following pattern: (the list of such verbs is given below)

- ☐ The film was much spoken about.
- ☐ The doctor was sent for.

Mind the place of the preposition in Russian and English:

RUSSIAN	ENGLISH
Над НИМ часто смеются.	He is often laughed at .
О НЕМ много говорили.	He was much spoken about .

QUESTIONS AND NEGATIVES

GENERAL RULE: In questions we normally put an auxiliary verb before the subject. If there is no auxiliary, we use do.

Auxiliary Verbs

The auxiliaries be, have and do are used in forming tenses, negatives and questions.

1. The auxiliary be is used in forming the continuous tenses (is reading, was working) and the passive (is built, was made).

- ☐ He is living in Germany now.
- ☐ We were going to phone you.
- ☐ These cars are made in Japan.
- ☐ The walls of his room were covered with posters.

2. The auxiliary have is used in forming the perfect tenses (have seen, had come, have been working).

- ☐ I haven't seen Peter since last night.
- ☐ He has been working very hard recently.

3. The auxiliary do (the past form did) is used in making negative and question forms from sentences that have a verb in simple tenses (the Present Simple, the Past Simple: speak, goes; asked, went).

- ☐ Do you like her new haircut?
- ☐ Does anyone have a question?
- ☐ Did you see her at the party yesterday?
- ☐ He doesn't have any money.
- ☐ She didn't buy the house.

Questions

I. Questions which can be answered "yes" or "no" are called GENERAL QUESTIONS.

1. If the main verb is the Present Simple or the Past Simple of the verb to be, we put the verb at the beginning of the sentence, before the subject.

- ☐ Are you ready?
- ☐ Was it a nice party?

2. If the verb group has more than one word (compound tenses), the first word (auxiliary verb) comes at the beginning of the sentence, before the subject. The rest of the verb group comes after the subject. When asking a question, we place the modal verb before the subject, too.

- ☐ Is he coming?
- ☐ Has he been working since morning?
- ☐ Can John swim?

3. If the verb group consists of only a main verb (simple tenses), we use the auxiliary verb do, does, did at the beginning of the sentence, before the subject.

After the subject we use the base form of the verb.

- ☐ Do the British love sport?
- ☐ Does your wife work?
- ☐ Did you go out last night?

- NOTE: a) when the main verb is do, you still have to add do, does, did before the subject.
☐ Do they do the work themselves? ☐ Did you do the "A level" examination last term?
 b) if the main verb is have, we usually put do, does, did before the subject.
☐ Does anyone have a question? ☐ Did you have a good time?

Negatives

To make negative verb forms, we put not after an auxiliary verb or be. If there is no other auxiliary, we use do (don't, doesn't, didn't).

- ☐ That isn't right. ☐ It wasn't raining. ☐ She can't sing.
☐ I haven't forgotten about the appointment. ☐ She doesn't eat sweets.

- A question tag consists of a verb and a pronoun. The verb in a question tag is chosen the same way we do it in a general question.
- With a positive statement we usually use a negative question tag, ending in -n't. With a negative statement we always use a positive question tag.

THE SEQUENCE OF TENSES

1. General Rules

THE RULE STATES: if the verb in the principal clause is in one of the past tenses, a past tense (or future-in-the-past) must be used in the subordinate clause. The action expressed in the subordinate clause can be simultaneous with the action expressed in the principal clause, prior or posterior to that of the principal clause. Study how the Rule of the Sequence of Tenses is observed in such clauses.

	SIMULTANEOUS ACTION	PRIOR ACTION	FUTURE ACTION
I knew (that) He said	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – he lived in Kiev он живёт в Киеве – they were waiting for us они ждут нас – he had been living in Kiev since 1946 он живёт в Киеве с 1946 года – he had known her for two years он знает её 2 года 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – he had already left Moscow он уже уехал из Москвы – it had been raining as it was wet outside шёл дождь, так как на улице мокро – she had been ill for two weeks она болела две недели 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> – they would arrive on Sunday они приедут в воскресенье – they would be working at 6 в 6 они будут работать – he would have translated the article by Monday он уже переведёт эту статью к понедельнику

So a useful GENERAL RULE is: we move the reported clauses “one tense back”: present becomes past, past becomes past perfect, will becomes would.

Study how the tenses are changed according to the rule of the Sequence of Tenses.

Present Simple I do...	⇒	Past Simple I did...
Present Continuous He is doing...	⇒	Past Continuous He was doing...
Present Perfect I have done...	⇒	Past Perfect I had done...
Past Indefinite I did...	⇒	Past Perfect (or stays the same) I did / had done...
Past Continuous I was doing...	⇒	Past Perfect Continuous I had been doing...
Past Perfect I had done...	⇒	does not change will (future)	⇒	would can	⇒	could may	⇒	might must	⇒	must or had to

Could / could have done
Might / might have done	⇒	do not change
Should / should have done
Needn't / needn't have done

- "I woke up feeling ill and so I stayed in bed."
– Tom said (that) he woke up feeling ill and so he stayed in bed.
– Tom said he had woken up feeling ill then and so he had stayed in bed.
- "You must stay in bed for three days." – The doctor said that I must stay in bed for three days. (order/advice)
- "I must leave you now. Here goes the bell." – She said she had to leave us right away. There was the bell. (circumstances)
- "You should go to the dentist." – Mother said I should go to the dentist.
- "I couldn't have said it." – She insisted she couldn't have said it.

When reporting something which was said in another place or a long time ago, other parts of the sentence may have to be changed, apart from the tense.

Time and Place Changes

here	⇒	there
this	⇒	that
these	⇒	those
now	⇒	then / at that moment / right away
today	⇒	that day
yesterday	⇒	the day before / the previous day
tomorrow	⇒	the next / following day
a year ago	⇒	a year before
last night	⇒	the previous night
tonight	⇒	that night

- "I'll do it tomorrow." – She told me (that) she would do it the next day.
- "Do I have to do it now?" – I wondered if I had to do it right away.
- "Look at this document." – She wanted me to look at the document.

NB! Adverb changes depend on the context. It is not always necessary to make these changes, especially in spoken Indirect Speech.

- "I'll see you tonight", he said. – He said he would see me tonight.

NOTES:

1. The main sphere where the Sequence of Tenses is applied is the object clause:
□ Harris said he knew what kind of place I meant.
2. If there are several subordinate clauses in a sentence, the rule is observed in all of them.
□ I knew that he had told her that he received the letters every week.
– Я знал, что он сказал ей, что получает эти письма каждую неделю.

- ☐ I thought he would tell her that he intended to go to the Crimea.
– Я думал, что он скажет ей, что он намеревается поехать в Крым.
- ☐ He said that Jack had told her that he was writing a play.
– Он сказал, что Джек говорил ей, что он пишет пьесу.
3. The Rule of the Sequence of Tenses is not observed:
- a) if the object clause expresses a general truth or something is represented as habitual, customary or characteristic.
- ☐ The teacher told the children that water boils at 100°C.
- ☐ Galileo proved that the Earth moves round the Sun.
- ☐ The speaker said that the peoples want peace.
- ☐ He told them that he usually goes home by bus.
- ☐ He asked what time the train usually starts.
- ☐ We knew that he plays tennis well.
- b) if the original speaker was talking about a present or future situation that is still present or future (soon after it was said).
- ☐ I told you it is raining. (In some hours) I told you it was raining.
4. In when/if-clauses we use the Past Simple/Past Continuous/Past Perfect depending on the situation.
- ☐ I thought that we would discuss the problem when the manager returned from Moscow.
- ☐ He said he would be reading while she was writing the letter.
- ☐ He said that he would go home after he had translated the article.
5. In attributive clauses, adverbial clauses of cause and comparison we also use Present or Future.
- ☐ My brother told me about the book you are writing.
- ☐ He was not able to translate the article because he does not know English well enough.
- ☐ He refused to go to the theatre because he will have an exam in a few days.
- ☐ It was not so cold yesterday as it is now.
- ☐ He was once stronger than he is now.
6. When we say how long something has been happening, the sentence can have a double meaning. It depends on the context or situation.
- ☐ I knew that she had been ill for two months.
1. Я знал, что она болеет уже два месяца.
2. Я знал, что она болела два месяца.
- BUT: ☐ I knew that she had been ill. – Я знал, что она болела.
- ☐ He said that it had been raining. – Он сказал, что шел дождь.
7. The Past Simple can stay the same if we use:
- | | | |
|---|---|---|
| in 1945 2 years ago yesterday last week when he came | ⇒ | <input type="checkbox"/> He said that he left Moscow 5 years ago. <input type="checkbox"/> He knew that Peter was at home yesterday. <input type="checkbox"/> She said she was working when I rang her up. |
|---|---|---|
- BUT: ☐ He said that he had left Moscow the day before.
two years before.
the previous night.
8. The Past Simple after since and when generally remains unchanged.
- ☐ She said, "I have been writing since I came."
– She said she had been writing since she came.
- ☐ "When I came, Jane was playing the piano."
Kitty said that when she came Jane was playing the piano.

Пикник на одеяле

Один профессор Бостонского университета сказал, что современные родители очень мало знают о том, как организовать «досуг в кругу семьи» (family leisure time). В качестве одного из вариантов он предложил устроить пикник во дворе за домом (back-yard): расстелить (spread) одеяло, разжечь костёр (make/lay a fire), испечь (bake) картошку, как будто (as if) вы на пляже.

Прочитав это, я собрал семью и сказал, что вечером мы устроим пикник во дворе за домом. Мой сын Джордж сказал, что соседи подумают, что мы сошли с ума (go mad). А жена поинтересовалась, что я держу под мышкой. Оказалось (turn out to be), что это наше новое одеяло, которое, конечно, нельзя использовать для этой цели.

Дети поинтересовались, что мы будем делать весь вечер на заднем дворе. Я объяснил, что мы будем сидеть и есть печёную картошку. Мой сын сказал, что он договорился вечером играть в теннис. Моя дочь Нэнси согласилась есть печеную картошку во дворе, но заметила, что потом она должна будет уйти, так как она идёт в бассейн со своей подругой.

Мы расстелили одеяло на прекрасном месте за домом напротив гаража и разожгли огромный костер. Заметив выглядывающих из окон соседей, я попросил жену и детей не обращать на них внимания. Моя жена ворчала (grumble), что мы сидим на камнях и что она не может есть сырую (raw) картошку.

Я спросил, чувствуют ли они себя так, как будто сидят на пляже. На что дочь ответила, что ей бы хотелось искупаться в океане, и скрылась (disappear) за гаражом. Джон спросил, в какой стороне океан. Он пообещал вернуть сестру и тоже исчез за гаражом. Жена толкнула меня локтём (nudge) и сказала, что к нам пришли (have visitors). Я поднял глаза и увидел двух полицейских. «Нам сообщили, что во дворе кто-то сидит на одеяле», – сказал один из них.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD

The Subjunctive Mood shows that the action or state expressed by the verb is presented as a non-fact, as something imaginary or desired.

1. Conditional Sentences

Conditional sentences may express real and unreal condition. They are introduced by the conjunctions if, in case, provided/providing (that), unless, suppose/supposing.

CONDITION		SUBORDINATE CLAUSE	PRINCIPAL CLAUSE	TRANSLATION
Real (Type I)		If it looks like rain, If I have more time, If he is working on Friday, Present Simple/Cont.	we'll stay at home. I'll come over. he won't be able to go with us. will + Inf.	бы
Unreal	Present/Future (Type II)	If I were you, If I had more time, If you knew him better, If it were not raining , Past Simple/Cont.	I would go there myself. I would come over. you wouldn't think so. I could go out . would could might + Inf.	бы
	Past (Type III)	If you had gone there, If it hadn't been so hot last summer, Past Perfect	you would have seen him. we could have gone to the South. would could might + have + Participle II

NOTES:

1. If is the most common. In case and provided/providing are chiefly used in sentences of real condition (Type I):

- In case I don't find her at home, I'll leave her a note.
 В случае если я не застану её дома, я оставлю ей записку.

- ☐ We'll finish the work on time provided you send all the necessary materials.
Мы закончим работу вовремя, при условии если вы пришлёте все необходимые материалы.

Unless (= if ... not) has a negative meaning and is used in sentences of real condition (Type I). The verb is always in the affirmative after unless:

- ☐ I'll come in time unless I am detained at the University/if I am not detained at the University.
Я приду вовремя, если меня не задержат в университете.

Suppose is more common in sentences of unreal condition:

- ☐ Suppose he wrote to you, would you answer?
Предположим, он написал бы вам, вы бы ответили?

2. Were can be used in place of was after if in all persons. Were is more formal and more typical of British English.

- ☐ If I were/was better qualified, I'd get the job.

Only were is used in "If I were you,..." , "If I were in your position,..." :

- ☐ If I were you, I'd look for a new job.

3. Will, would, should are not normally used in the subordinate clause (if-clause). However, will and would can be used after if for a polite request or insistence:

- ☐ If you will give me your e-mail address, I'll send this information to you. (= Will you please give me your e-mail address...)
☐ If you will not obey the rules, you will have to leave. (= If you insist on not obeying the rules...)

Should can be used in the subordinate clause (if-clause) to talk about something which is possible but not very likely to happen. Such sentences are translated by means of «Если бы случилось так...», «Случись так...»:

- ☐ If he should come, ask him to wait.
В случае если он придет, попросите его подождать.

4. There are two mixed types of sentences of unreal condition:

- a) the condition refers to the past and the consequence refers to the present:
☐ If you had taken your medicine yesterday, you would be well today.
Если бы вы вчера приняли это лекарство, теперь вы бы были здоровы.
b) the condition refers to no particular time and the consequence refers to the past:
☐ If he were not so absent-minded, he would not have missed the train yesterday.
Если бы он не был таким рассеянным, он бы не опоздал вчера на поезд.

5. Unreal conditions may also be expressed in the following ways:

- a) But for + noun/pronoun
☐ But for the rain we would go down to the country.
Если бы не дождь, мы бы поехали за город.
b) If it were not for + noun/pronoun
If it had not been for + noun/pronoun
☐ If it were not for your help, I wouldn't be able to get such good results.
Если бы не ваша помощь...
☐ If it hadn't been for me, they would have never found the place.
Если бы не я...

6. In sentences of unreal condition the modal verbs might and could are often used instead of would; they fully retain their modal meaning:

- ☐ If I had a big garden, I would could
might | ⇒ grow a lot of flowers.

7. Adverbial clauses of condition containing the verbs had, were, could, should are often introduced without any conjunction. In these cases we find inversion:

- ✗ I had time, I would come over.
 □ Had I time, I would come over.

- ✗ she were in New York, she would certainly call you.
 □ Were she in New York, she would certainly call you.

8. Indirect Speech:

"If I had a big garden I would grow a lot of flowers."

- He said that if he had a big garden he would (could/might) grow a lot of flowers.

1. The general rule for forming the plural of English nouns is by adding the ending -s to the singular	tables, books, ties, plans, paths, months	-s is pronounced: [z] after voiced consonants and vowels: beds, flowers, boys [s] after voiceless consonants: caps, books, hats [iz] after sibilants: noses, horses, bridges, houses
2. If the noun ends in -s, -ss, -x, -z, -sh, -ch, -tch, -o , the plural is formed by adding -es [iz], [z] after -o	buses, glasses, boxes, brushes, benches, matches, cargoes, potatoes	But: pianos, photos, cuckoos, videos, zoos
3. There are seven nouns which form the plural by changing the root vowel	man – men woman – women ['womən] – ['wɪmɪn] foot – feet tooth – teeth goose – geese mouse – mice louse – lice

Spelling Rules

RULES	EXAMPLES	NOTES
1. If the noun ends in -y preceded by a consonant, -y is changed into -i – before -es	fly – flies army – armies lady – ladies	In proper names there is no change: Mary – Marys
2. If the final -y is preceded by a vowel, there is no vowel change	day – days toy – toys boy – boys key – keys play – plays
3. The nouns ending in -f, -fe change it into -v (both in spelling and pronunciation)	wife – wives leaf – leaves knife – knives thief – thieves life – lives half – halves	roof – roofs scarf < scarfs scarves wharf < wharfs wharves

4. The Category of Case

English nouns denoting living beings (and some lifeless things) have two cases: the common case and the genitive (or possessive) case.

The Genitive

1. We show possession in English with the genitive form of a noun. This means we normally use 's or s' for people and some living creatures. We put the possessive before the noun it refers to:

❑ Frank's car. (Not "the car of Frank/the car of Frank's").

2. The simplest rule to remember is: Add 's to any personal noun unless it is in the form of a plural ending in -s, in which case just add an apostrophe ('). This means:

❑ add 's to singular nouns and names not ending in -s:
a boy's tie; Tom's hat.

❑ add 's to singular nouns ending in -s: an actress's career; a waitress's job.

❑ add 's to irregular plural nouns:
children's games; the men's club; sheep's wool.

❑ add an apostrophe (') after the -s of regular plurals:
the girls' uniforms.

❑ add 's to names ending in -s:

Charles's address; Doris's party; St. James's Park.

Famous names ending in -s just add ('): Yeats' poetry (pronounced [s] or [iz]).

❑ add 's to the last element of the word group:

My friend Peter's watch; my father-in-law's house.

Apostrophe S ('S/S'), Compound Noun or Of?

1. When we want to show possession with things, we can use of: the leg of the table. However, we often prefer to use a compound noun instead of of: the table leg.
2. We must use of when we cannot form a compound noun: the book of the film (Not "the film's book"); the top of the box (Not "the box's top"). You can only learn this from experience. If you are in doubt, use of.

The Use of 'S and S' with Non-Living Things: "an Hour's Journey"

We use 's and s' with some non-living things:

- ☐ fixed phrases: the earth's surface, journey's end, the ship's company;
- ☐ time phrases (singular): an hour's journey, a day's work, a month's salary;
- ☐ time phrases (plural): two hours' journey, two days' work, two months' salary.

It is also used with nouns expressing space and weight, with the names of countries, cities and ships and with the nouns world, country, city, ship:

- ☐ Moscow's theatres
- ☐ world's best museums
- ☐ our country's best opera house
- ☐ the ship's crew

We can use 's when the first noun is an organisation:

- ☐ the government's decision
- ☐ the company's success

The Genitive is used in some set expressions:

- ☐ for Heaven's sake / for God's sake
- ☐ at one's wit's end
- ☐ a hair's breadth
- ☐ at a stone's throw

Omission of the Noun after 'S

We generally omit the noun after 's when referring to work-places, shops and houses: the doctor's rather than the doctor's surgery, my mother's rather than my mother's house.

THE ARTICLE

The article is a structural part of speech used with nouns. The use of articles depends on the type of noun, context or situation, it is sometimes influenced by the syntactic relations in which the noun occurs.

There are two types of articles in modern English: the indefinite (a/an) and the definite article (the). The absence of articles also has its grammatical significance: it shows that the nouns are used in a general sense.

1. Use of Articles with Common Nouns

The Indefinite Article (a/an)

We use a/an with singular countable nouns (a in front of consonant sounds: a man, a year; an in front of vowel sounds: an umbrella, an eye, an hour).

The indefinite article is used:

1. when people do not yet know which particular thing you are talking about.

- ☐ I've been reading an interesting article in "The Economist".

2. when the speaker presents the object (expressed by the noun) as belonging to a certain class. In this case it has the meaning of «какой-нибудь», «какой-то», «один», «некий». The plural of a/an is the zero article when we refer to things in general. The plural of a/an is some/any when we refer to quantity.

- ☐ It happened in a small town in Siberia. Such buildings can be found in small towns.
- ☐ He bought a book yesterday.
He bought some books yesterday.

3. when we are not referring to a particular thing or person but just to any thing or person of a particular type. This use is typical after the verbs like want, look for, need, afford.

- ☐ The children want a ride.
- ☐ We need a leader.
- ☐ I can't afford a car.

The Definite Article (the)

We can use the with any noun.

The definite article is used:

1. When the speaker and the listener know what particular object is meant:

- ☐ How did you like the play?
- ☐ Where is the key?

NB! There is a difference between knowing what object is spoken about and knowing the object itself.

- ☐ A. I can't speak to the girl. I have never seen her. Won't you speak to her?
B. But I don't know the girl, either.

2. When the speaker uses an attribute pointing out a particular object – a particularizing attribute:

- ☐ This is the house that Jack built.
- ☐ Show me the telegram you received yesterday.
- ☐ The pictures in this book are very interesting.
- ☐ The walls of my room are painted blue.

NB! A particularizing attribute should not be confused with a descriptive attribute which is used to describe an object or to give some additional information about it. A descriptive attribute does not affect the use of the article:

- ☐ I have a wonderful clock which is 100 years old.

4. When a person or a thing is introduced for the first time. That shows that the reader (listener) does not know what we are referring to. After this first reference we use the.

- ☐ I watched a car as it came up our road.
The car stopped outside our house and a man got out. The man was carrying a case in his hand. With the case, the man looked like a salesman.

5. when the noun is used in a general sense and has the meaning of "every" (любой, всякий, каждый).

- ☐ A drowning man catches at a straw.
- ☐ A child can understand it.

- ☐ We went to the lake which was stormy that day.
- ☐ We've received a letter containing interesting information about...

3. When the situation (context) itself makes the object definite:

- ☐ The wedding looked sad. The bride was too old and the bridegroom was too young.

4. With singular countable nouns used in a generic sense (when we want to make a general statement about all things of that type):

- ☐ The tragedy and the comedy appeared in Greece.
- ☐ The pine grows in the North.

NB! In a generic sense:

- With the noun man no article is used.
☐ His trust in man has been destroyed.
- With the noun woman the definite article or no article is used.
☐ He had always been interested in that mysterious being – the woman.

The Zero Article

BASIC USES OF THE ZERO ARTICLE (-):

No article (zero) is used:

1. With plural countable nouns used in general statements, e.g. for:

- people ☐ Men are fond of hunting.
- animals ☐ Dogs should eat meat.
- food ☐ Oranges are good for you.
- places ☐ Cities are polluted by cars.
- products ☐ Shops are open on Sundays.

2. With uncountable nouns (always singular) used in general statements, e.g. for:

- food ☐ I like ice-cream.
- colours ☐ Red is my favourite colour.
- abstract ☐ No news is good news.
- substances ☐ Coffee is produced in Brazil.
- activities ☐ Smoking is not allowed here.
- languages ☐ Chinese is difficult to study.

By comparison, we use the when the reference is specific (not in general):

- a) with plural countable nouns ☐ The oranges from Spain are sweet.
- b) with uncountable nouns ☐ I used all the butter that was in the butter dish.

1.6 Indefinite and Negative Pronouns

Uses of Some, Any, No, None, One

- ☐ Give me some water, please. – Дайте мне воды, пожалуйста.
- ☐ Have you bought any sugar? – Купили ли вы сахар?
- ☐ There isn't any milk in the fridge. – В холодильнике нет молока.

Before countable nouns in the plural some/any are translated as «несколько», «какие-то», «какие-нибудь»:

- ☐ He asked me some questions. – Он задал мне несколько вопросов.
- ☐ Have you got any interesting books? – Есть у вас (какие-нибудь) интересные книги?
- ☐ I saw some strange people near your house. – Я видел каких-то незнакомых людей у вашего дома.

Some/Any or Zero in Relation to Quantity

- ☐ Is there a present for the children? ⇨ Are there any presents for the children?

Sometimes we do not use any and some, even if we are referring to quantity.

- ☐ Are there any presents for the children? ⇨ Are there presents for the children?
- ☐ Here are some presents for the children. ⇨ Here are presents for the children.

Uncountable Nouns

In the same way, we sometimes do not use any and some when referring to quantity:

- ☐ "There is some milk in the fridge," is the same as "There's milk in the fridge."

One

ONE AND YOU

We use one as a pronoun meaning "everyone/anyone", to refer to "people in general" only when we want to be formal. In everyday speech, we use you in an informal way to mean "everyone/anyone". Compare:

- A: Is it easy to go camping in this country?
 B: Yes, but one isn't allowed to camp where one likes. One can only use camp-sites.
 or: Yes, but you aren't allowed to camp where you like. You can only use camp-sites.

Do not use one, one's (= your) and oneself (= yourself) unless you want to sound formal.

EXERCISE

44 (B) Rewrite these paragraphs so that they sound "informal". Use you. Translate into Russian.

I

The moment one gets into the mountains, one is on one's own. One has to rely on oneself for everything. This means one has to carry all one's own food, though of course one can get pure drinking water from mountain streams. One won't see any local people for days at a time so one can't get help if one's lost. One has to do one's best to find sheltered places to spend the night.

As One Grows Older

As one grows older, one becomes more silent. In one's youth one feels an intense fellowship with other people, one wants to throw oneself in their arms and one feels that they will receive one. One wants to open oneself to them. One's life seems to overflow into the lives of others and become one with theirs as the waters of rivers become one in the sea.

But gradually the power one felt of doing all this leaves one; a barrier rises up between oneself and one's fellows, and one realizes that they are strangers to one.

ONE and ONES in place of countable nouns

1. We cannot use an adjective on its own in place of a singular countable noun. We must use a noun after an adjective or we must use one to avoid repeating the noun:

- ☐ Don't use that cloth. Use this clean one. (Not "Use this clean.")

2. We use ones to avoid repeating a plural countable noun:

- ☐ I don't want to wear my old shoes. I want to wear my new ones. (Not "Wear my new.")

3. We can use one and ones for people as well as things:

- ☐ Do you know John Smith/Jane Smith? – Is he/she the one who phoned last night?
☐ Do you know the Smiths? – Are they the ones who used to live in this house?

4. We do not use one in place of an uncountable noun. We repeat the noun or use no noun at all:

- ☐ Don't use that milk. Use this fresh milk. Or: Use this fresh. (Not "this fresh one.")

WHICH ONE(S)? – THIS/THAT (ONE)

1. We use one/ones to refer to people and things after "Which?", this/that and adjectives:

- ☐ Which one would you like? This one or that one? – I'd like the large one/the red one.

We can also say:

- ☐ Which would you like? This or that?

2. We sometimes omit one and ones after superlatives and in short answers:

- ☐ Which one/ones would you like? – I'd like the best (one/ones).
☐ Which one/ones would you like? – The large/ the red.

3. We usually avoid ones after these/those:

- ☐ I want these. I want those. (Not "these ones.")

4. We normally use one/ones after this/that/these/those + adjective:

- ☐ I want this/that white one. I want these/those white ones.

5. We cannot omit one/ones in structures like:

- ☐ Which woman? – The one in the green dress.

THE ADJECTIVE

The adjective is a word expressing a quality of a substance.

1. Formation of Adjectives

Adjectives are divided into:

Simple	Derivative	Compound
good red new	beautiful foolish hopeless unkind	snow-white deaf-mute cold-hearted four-wheeled

Adjectives Formed with Suffixes:

Many adjectives related to verbs or nouns have a characteristic ending (or suffix):

- We enjoyed the party. – The party was very enjoyable.

-able (capable of being)	manageable
-ible (like -able)	permissible
-ful (full of)	boastful
-ic	energetic
-ive (capable of being)	attractive
-ant, -ent	hesitant
-(i)an (historical period, etc.)	Victorian
-ish (having the quality of)	foolish, reddish
-ly, -y (having this quality)	friendly, snowy
-ous	humorous
-al	occasional
-en (made of; similar to)	wooden, golden

Also, note -ing forms used as adjectives: running water.

Adjectives Formed with Prefixes:

A prefix (e.g. im-) added to an adjective generally has a negative effect:

- I think it's possible to solve the problem. I think it's impossible to solve the problem.

un-	uncooked, unimaginable
in-	incapable, inhuman
il-	illegal, illegible
im-	immoral, impractical
dis-	dishonest, disagreeable
ir-	irresponsible, irregular

Note pre- (pre-war) and hyper- (hyperactive), which do not create opposites but modify the meaning of the word in some way.

Compound Adjectives of Measurement, etc.:

"a twenty-year-old man"

1. We combine numbers with nouns in the singular to form compound adjectives with hyphens: a twenty-year-old man (not "a twenty-years-old man").

We should prefer compounds of this kind to phrases with of: a man of twenty years.

2. Compound adjectives of this kind can refer to:

- age: a three-year-old building
- volume: a two-litre car
- length: a twelve-inch ruler
- price: a $50 dress (a fifty-dollar dress)

A Joke

- Only a ten-minute walk if you run.

2. Word Order: Adjective + Noun

Sometimes we use two or more adjectives together:

- There was a beautiful large round wooden table in the kitchen.

Adjectives like new/large/round/wooden are fact adjectives. They give us objective information about age, size, colour, etc. Adjectives like nice/beautiful are opinion adjectives. They tell us what someone thinks of something.

Opinion Adjectives Go before Fact Adjectives

Opinion	Fact	Noun
nice	sunny	day
delicious	hot	soup
an intelligent	young	man
beautiful	large round wooden	table

We Put Fact Adjectives in this Order:

How big?	⇒	How old?	⇒	What colour?	⇒	Where from?	⇒	What is it made of?	⇒	NOUN
a tall		young		–		–		–		man
big		–		blue		–		–		eyes
a small		–		black		–		plastic		bag
a large		old		–		French		–		armchair
–		an old		–		Russian		–		song

1. Materials (nouns) behave like adjectives when we use them to form compound nouns:

- a shirt (noun) made of cotton (noun) ⇒ a cotton shirt.

2. We can have three-word compound nouns. "Material" comes before "purpose" or "use":

- a clock made of plastic used in the kitchen ⇒ a plastic kitchen clock.

Adjectives go before nouns.

We cannot separate a compound noun by an adjective:

- a good plastic kitchen clock.

SUMMARY:

quality/ opinion	size	age	shape	colour	where from? или Past Participle	Past Participle или where from?	material	purpose	noun
beautiful/ valuable	large	old	round	brown	French/ handmade	handmade/ French	wooden	kitchen	table

We use the superlative when comparing one person or thing with more than one.

ADJECTIVES		COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE

hot – hotter – the hottest.
2. Adjectives like nice (fine, large, late, safe) add -r, -st:

Elephants Live Longer

Sir,
Doctors want us to believe that doing sports is (good) ⁽¹⁾ for our health. Sport and other activities help us to live (long) ⁽²⁾ This is complete nonsense!
If you look at nature, you will see that the (active) ⁽³⁾ animals have the (short) ⁽⁴⁾ lifespan. A good example is the hummingbird (колибри).
However, animals which move slowly or live a (quiet) ⁽⁵⁾ life, usually grow a lot (old) ⁽⁶⁾ like the tortoise or the elephant.
This might also explain why the average woman lives about 5 years (long) ⁽⁷⁾ than the average man, who spends so much energy on hard, often physically hard work.
I therefore suggest that we should not advertise sports actively. This suggestion would help more people to have (long) ⁽⁸⁾ lives.

Mr. Brendan Long,
Guildford, Sussex

Women: Elephants or Hummingbirds?

Sir,
I am writing in answer to Mr. Long's letter, in which he suggests that (slow) ⁽¹⁾ movers live (long) ⁽²⁾ Mr. Long seems to believe that a kind of life in total lethargy is (healthy) ⁽³⁾ than an active kind of life, which is a very dangerous suggestion, I believe.
Psychologists have shown that people who are (little) ⁽⁴⁾ active are often depressive, eat and drink more and die of all kinds of illnesses at very early age.

Dr. Paul McNeill,
London E3

Sir,
Mr. Long's theory about long life is sexist nonsense! Women usually work much harder than men, because housework is very (hard) ⁽¹⁾ physical work, and very many women have a job besides the housework. Even in the "Third World", where women do much of the agricultural work alone, they have (long) ⁽²⁾ lives than men. How could Mr. Long explain this within his "theory"?

Vanessa Grant, Jennifer Cartwright,
Women and the Third World Working Group

THE ADVERB

1. Definition, Forms and Place

An adverb adds to the meaning of a verb, an adjective or another adverb. It can describe manner (how), place (where), time (when), degree (to what extent), etc.

As for their structure, adverbs are divided into:

SIMPLE	DERIVATIVE	COMPOUND	COMPOSITE
long enough then	slowly likewise forward	anyhow sometimes nowhere	at once at last so far

Adverbs of manner are often formed by adding -ly to an adjective. Adverbs formed in this way usually have a similar meaning to an adjective.

Adjectives	Adverbs
bad	badly
beautiful	beautifully
careful	carefully
quick	quickly
quiet	quietly
soft	softly

There are sometimes changes in spelling when an adverb is formed from an adjective.

Adjectives	Adverbs
-le changes to -ly	gentle
-y changes to -ily	easy
-ic changes to -ically	automatic
-ue changes to -uly	true
-ll changes to -lly	full
	gently
	easily
	automatically
	truly
	fully

The most productive adverb-forming suffix is -ly, but there are also some other suffixes: -ward(s), -long, -wise: clockwise, forward, headlong.

We can use some words as adjectives or adverbs without adding -ly or -illy:

- ☐ It was a fast train./The train went fast.
- ☐ He returned from a long journey./Will you stay here long?
- ☐ The price is very low./The plane flew very low.
- ☐ We have very little time./He reads very little.

Other examples are: hard, high, deep, last, late, near, wide, early, far, straight, right, wrong.

Some adverbs have two forms, one without -ly and the other with -ly. These forms have different meanings and uses: hard/hardly, last/lastly, late/late, near/nearly, high/highly.

Adjective	Adverb without -ly	Adverb with -ly
He is a hard worker. Он усердный работник.	He works hard . Он работает усердно .	I could hardly understand him. Я едва мог понять его.
He returned in late autumn. Он возвратился поздней осенью.	I went to bed late yesterday. Я лег поздно вчера.	I haven't seen him late ly. Я не видел его в последнее время.
He is studying the history of the Near East. Он изучает историю Ближнего Востока.	He lives quite near . Он живет совсем близко .	It is nearly 5 o'clock. Почти 5 часов.
The house is very high . Дом очень высокий .	The plane flew very high . Самолет летел очень высоко .	It is a highly developed state. Это высокоразвитое государство.

2. Classification of Adverbs

ACCORDING TO THEIR MEANING, ADVERBS FALL INTO SEVERAL GROUPS:

2.1 Adverbs of Manner

Adverbs of manner tell us how something happens: well, badly, quickly, slowly, easily, quietly, etc.:

- ☐ How did John behave? He behaved badly.
- ☐ Did you sleep well?
- ☐ He came very quickly.

The adverbs loud(ly), cheap(ly), quick(ly) and slow(ly) are often used without -ly in everyday English:

- ☐ Don't speak so loud(ly).

The adverb pretty can mean "very, quite". It is used before an adjective or an adverb:

- ☐ pretty expensive/much

Some adjectives end in -ly. If we want to use these words as adverbs, we say: "in a ... manner/way/fashion":

- ☐ Meg is a friendly girl. She always greets me in a friendly way.
- ☐ That was a cowardly thing to do. You acted in a cowardly way.

We do not use adverbs after link verbs such as to be, become, feel, get, look and seem. We use adjectives after such verbs:

- ☐ Sue felt happy. (not "Sue felt happily")
- ☐ Nobody seemed amused.
- ☐ I am not sure.

We say "fast asleep" and "wide awake" (not "very"):

- ☐ The children are fast asleep now but an hour ago they were wide awake.

Fixed phrases: deeply hurt, painfully embarrassed, highly respected, bitterly cold, greatly appreciative, badly needed.

- ☐ She was highly respected in her village.
- ☐ A new playground for our children is badly needed.
- ☐ She was deeply hurt by his words but didn't say a word.

Adverbs of manner go before main verbs, after auxiliary verbs or at the end of the sentence:

- ☐ They quickly returned.
- ☐ He was anxiously waiting for their reply.
- ☐ She smiled kindly.

THE VERBALS

(the non-finite forms of the verb)

The verb has finite and non-finite forms, the latter being also called the Verbals. The Verbals do not express person, number or mood, that is why they cannot be used as the predicate of a sentence.

There are three verbals in English: the Gerund, the Infinitive and the Participle.

In Russian we also have three non-finite forms but they do not fully coincide with those in the English language (причастие, деепричастие, инфинитив).

1. The Gerund

1.1 Forms / Use of the Gerund

	Active	Passive
Simple (Indefinite)	writing	being written
Perfect	having written	having been written

(for Spelling Rules, see Appendix 4)

In modern English the Gerund is widely used and competes with the Infinitive: some verbs are followed by an ing-form, others by a to-infinitive.

The Verbs Used with the Gerund or the Infinitive

The most common verbs followed by the Gerund:

1. verbs of thinking and saying: admit, anticipate, consider, deny, discuss, forgive, imagine (form a picture in mind), mention, recall, recollect, remember, suggest, understand*

- ☐ I don't recall meeting the man.
- ☐ He suggested going to the disco.
- ☐ We consider buying a house.

The most common verbs followed by the Infinitive:

1. verb + to-Infinitive: afford, attempt, agree, arrange, decide, demand, expect, fail, forget, hesitate, hope, mean (intend), manage, offer, plan, prepare, pretend, promise, propose, refuse, tend, want, wish, etc.*

- ☐ She agreed to let us use her flat.
- ☐ I decided to go out for the evening.

2. verbs of liking and disliking: like, love, enjoy, fancy, adore, dislike, hate, resent, detest, dread, mind

- ☐ I've just finished reading the book.
- ☐ She stopped crying and looked at me.

5. verbs: want, need, deserve, require, meaning "be in need of, require, lack." (After such verbs the Gerund is used in the active form though it is passive in meaning.)

- ☐ The room needs painting.
- ☐ The child deserves praising.

☐ She failed to win a place in the finals.

2. verb + object + to-Infinitive: advise, allow*, encourage*, force/make, help, invite, order, permit*, persuade, recommend*, remind, teach, warn, catch, find, notice, see, etc.*

- ☐ He invited the friends to come over.
- ☐ They advised us to take this road.

3. verbs used with both the structures "verb + to-Infinitive" and "verb + object + Infinitive": ask, want, expect, help, remind, threaten, etc.

1.2 Tense/Voice Distinctions of the Gerund

Like the finite forms the verbals have tense and voice distinctions, but their tense distinctions differ from those of the finite verbs.

The Tense Distinctions of the Gerund are Relative:

The Simple Gerund

denotes an action simultaneous with that of the predicate.

- ☐ He avoided making the mistake again.

The Perfect Gerund

denotes an action prior to that of the predicate. It shows that the action of the Gerund happened before the action of the verb.

- ☐ He admitted having made the mistake.

1. Prior action is not always expressed by a Perfect Gerund. In some cases we find a Simple Gerund when there is no need to show the priority of action:

– after the verbs: remember, excuse, forgive, thank, admit, etc.

– after the prepositions: on (upon), after, without.

- ☐ He admitted to having stolen/stealing the car.

- ☐ I don't remember hearing the legend before.
☐ After seeing her friend off, she went home.

2. The Gerund has special forms for the Active and Passive Voice.

- ☐ He liked neither reading nor being read to.

1.4 The Gerundial Construction

In the examples discussed the subject of the main verb is also the subject of the Gerund but there are cases when the Gerund is related to its own "subject" (nominal element), expressed by a noun or a pronoun.

- ☐ We appreciate your helping us.
Мы (высоко) ценим вашу помощь (то, что вы помогли).
- ☐ We enjoyed the band's playing very much.
Нам очень понравилось, как играл оркестр.

A gerundial construction is nearly always rendered in Russian by a clause generally introduced by то, что/тем, что/как.

The nominal element of the construction can be expressed in different ways:

- If it denotes a living being, it may be expressed by a possessive pronoun or a noun in the possessive case.
 - ☐ Do you mind my smoking?
 - ☐ Our talk was prevented by Richard's coming back.

When the nominal element consists of two or more nouns, the possessive case is not used.

- ☐ I object to Mary and Jane going out on such a windy day.
- If the nominal element denotes a lifeless thing, it is expressed by a noun in the common case.
 - ☐ I said something about my clock being slow.
 - ☐ Her thoughts were interrupted by the door opening gently.

2. The Infinitive

2.1 Forms. Tense/Voice Distinctions

In modern English the Infinitive has the following forms:

	Active	Passive
Simple (Indefinite)	to write	be written
Continuous	to be writing	—
Perfect	to have written	to have been written
Perfect Continuous	to have been writing	—

Negative form: not + Infinitive

- ☐ She asked me not to forget to post the letter.

Like the tense distinctions of all verbals those of the Infinitive are also relative. It means that the Simple and Continuous Infinitives express an action simultaneous with the action expressed by the finite verb. The Continuous Infinitive shows an action in progress.

- ☐ I was glad to see Mr. Paul. Я был рад видеть мистера Пола.
☐ Mr. Forsyte will be glad to meet you. Мистер Форсайт будет рад познакомиться с вами.

- ☐ He pretended to be sleeping. Он притворился, что спит.

The Perfect Infinitive denotes an action prior to that of the finite verb. It is often used after modal verbs and some expressions (to be + adjective): to be glad, to be happy, to be sorry, to be surprised, it is clever/kind/silly of you, etc.

- ☐ He must have forgotten about it. Он, должно быть, забыл об этом.
☐ I was sorry to have said it. Я сожалел, что сказал это (раньше).

NB! Only two forms of the Infinitive (the Simple Active and Passive to ask/to be asked) have corresponding forms in Russian. There are no corresponding forms for the Continuous, Perfect and Perfect Continuous Infinitive, hence they can be translated only in a context.

The Infinitive of transitive verbs has special forms for the Active and Passive Voice.

- ☐ It is wonderful to love and to be loved. Прекрасно любить и быть любимым.

2.2 Use of the Infinitive without the Particle to (the Bare Infinitive)

In modern English the Infinitive is chiefly used with the particle to – the formal sign of the Infinitive. Still there are cases when the bare Infinitive is used.

1. After auxiliary verbs:
 - ☐ I don't know her.
 - ☐ We shall go there at once.
2. After modal verbs:
 - ☐ You can't do it.
 - ☐ You must consult the doctor.

BUT! Ought is always followed by the to-Infinitive:

- ☐ You ought to help the old.

3. In a complex object after the verbs of sense perception (to see, to hear, to feel, to watch, to notice, etc.):

- ☐ I've never seen you look so well. (see The Complex Object)

- ☐ She heard him enter the room.
- ☐ I felt my heart jump.

NB! After these verbs in the Passive the to-Infinitive is used:

- ☐ He was heard to mention your name.
- ☐ She was seen to leave the house early in the morning.

4. After the verbs: to let, to make (заставлять), need (нужно) and dare (сметь, осмелиться) (in the modal meaning):

- ☐ Let's be friends.
- ☐ If he calls, let me know.
- ☐ Need I do the washing up?
- ☐ How dare you call me a liar?
- ☐ What makes you think so?

NB!

1) Passive structures with make have the to-Infinitive:

- ☐ He was made to apologise.

2) Dare can be followed by a to-Infinitive or a bare Infinitive in negative or interrogative sentences when there is an auxiliary or a modal in front of it and when we use the forms dares, dared:

- ☐ He didn't dare (to) walk to the village.
☐ What bank would dare (to) offer such terms?
☐ No one dares (to) disturb him.
☐ No other manager dared (to) compete.

5. After a few verbs like help and know a bare Infinitive or a to-Infinitive may be used:

- ☐ Can you help me (to) fill in this job application form?

6. After the expressions had better (лучше бы), would rather/sooner (бы, пожалуй), cannot but (не могу не), etc.:

- ☐ You had better go there at once.
☐ He said he would rather stay at home.
☐ I can't but think about it.

7. In the sentences beginning with why (not) (почему бы вам):

8. After formal words than, rather than, but, except:

- ☐ I'll do anything but work with children.
☐ Rather than walk for half an hour, I'll take a taxi.

9. When we cause someone to do something for us, we use have + object + bare Infinitive:

- ☐ Have the driver bring the car, please.

1. We can use to for the Infinitive of a repeated verb if the meaning is clear:

- ☐ "Shall we go swimming?" – "I'd like to but I'm working late."
☐ "You made Ann cry." – "I didn't mean to."

2. If two infinitives are joined with and/or, the to of the second Infinitive can be omitted:

2.3 Functions of the Infinitive in the Sentence

The Infinitive can be used in different syntactic functions. We will discuss here only the most difficult ones for Russian speakers.

1. The Infinitive as a subject. In Russian it can be rendered by an infinitive, a noun, a clause. Far more often such sentences open with an introductory subject it (not translated into Russian).	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <input type="checkbox"/> To walk in the garden was very pleasant. Гулять в саду было очень приятно. <input type="checkbox"/> To think of it made him suffer. Мысль об этом причиняла ему страдание. <input type="checkbox"/> To be recognized gave her great joy. Когда ее узнавали, она испытывала большую радость. <input type="checkbox"/> It is useless to discuss this question. Бесполезно обсуждать этот вопрос.
2. The Infinitive is used to express purpose (as an adverbial modifier of purpose – «чтобы»)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <input type="checkbox"/> To understand the rule better, I read it several times. Чтобы лучше понять правило, я прочел его несколько раз. <input type="checkbox"/> I stayed there to see what would happen. Я остался там, чтобы посмотреть, что произойдет.

In order to + Infinitive and so as + Infinitive are also used to express purpose. They are more formal than the to-Infinitive
In order to/so as to are more common before the verbs be, have, know.

- ☐ I'll write down your telephone number so as not to forget it.

4. The Infinitive as an attribute: in this function it is far more extensive in English than in Russian. In English it modifies abstract and class nouns, pronouns, ordinal numbers and adjectives.

There are several ways in which the Infinitive can be used to function as an attribute:

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1) after such pronouns as: something, anyone, nothing , etc., usually to show that something is necessary or possible | <input type="checkbox"/> I have nobody to say a kind word to me.
У меня никого нет, кто бы сказал мне доброе слово. |
| 2) after certain nouns | <input type="checkbox"/> I had no time to visit the museum yet.
<input type="checkbox"/> He gave her a knife to cut the bread with. |
| 3) after be + the first/second/last/next/best | <input type="checkbox"/> He was the first/last to come .
Он пришёл первым (последним). |

The Infinitive used as an attribute often has a modal meaning or implies a future action:

- ☐ I've got a wife and a child to look after.
У меня жена и ребенок, о которых я должен заботиться.
- ☐ The question will be discussed at the conference shortly to open in Moscow. (которая вскоре откроется в Москве.)

The attributive Passive Infinitive may have a future meaning:

- ☐ The houses to be built here will be of the same type.
Дома, которые должны быть/будут построены здесь, будут иметь такую же конструкцию.

The attributive Infinitive may express a meaning corresponding to Russian можно, нужно, следует:

- ☐ It's the only thing to do.
Это единственное, что можно сделать.
- ☐ It's a book to read and remember.
Такую книгу надо прочесть и запомнить.

NB! The Passive Infinitive is seldom used in the attributive function. That is why we say "it is a book to read" (not "to be read").

EXCEPTIONS: There is nothing to be done and nothing to do; there is something to be seen/to be said and something to see/to say.

5. The Infinitive as an object:

In this function it can be used after some verbs followed by the to-Infinitive (see The Gerund 1.1):

- ☐ They decided to send him a telegramme.
- ☐ Passing by a radio-shop he suddenly remembered to buy some CDs for his player.

6. The Infinitive can be also used after adjectives which:

- a) describe feelings or emotions (happy, glad):
- b) express willingness/unwillingness (eager, anxious, reluctant, willing, annoyed, etc):
- c) refer to person's character (mean, clever):
- d) with the adjectives lucky, fortunate:

- ☐ They were happy to see us.
- ☐ He is reluctant to help.
- ☐ You were clever not to believe him.
- ☐ She was lucky to have met this man.

2.4 The Infinitive Constructions

The Infinitive may have "a subject" of its own within the sentence. In this case it forms with it a construction: the Complex Object, the Complex Subject, the for-to-Infinitive Construction.

2.4.1 The Complex Object

The Complex Object (the Objective-with-the-Infinitive Construction) consists of a noun in the common case or a pronoun in the objective case and the Infinitive. It is mostly translated into Russian by an object clause.

Subject + Predicate + Noun (Pronoun) + Infinitive

- ☐ I want Mother (her) to help me.
Я хочу, чтобы мама (она) помогла мне.
- ☐ They expect the steamer to leave tonight.
Они ожидают, что пароход отойдёт сегодня вечером.

The Complex Object is used after:

1. the verbs of mental activity: to know, to think, to consider, to believe, to find (считать, полагать), to expect, to suppose (предполагать), to imagine, to feel, to trust, to understand, etc. (more characteristic of literary style) After the verbs to think, to consider, to find the verb to be can be omitted.	<input type="checkbox"/> I knew them to be right. Я знал, что они правы. <input type="checkbox"/> We expect them to arrive soon. Мы ожидаем, что они скоро приедут. <input type="checkbox"/> I find him (to be) a very clever man. <input type="checkbox"/> I don't consider him (to be) an honest man.
2. the verbs of declaring: to pronounce, to declare, to report, etc.	<input type="checkbox"/> The doctor pronounced the wound to be a slight one. Врач сказал, что рана лёгкая.
3. the verbs denoting wish and intention: to want, to wish, to desire, to mean, to urge, to intend/to choose (= want)	<input type="checkbox"/> He intended me to go with him to India. Он хотел, чтобы я поехала с ним в Индию. <input type="checkbox"/> I want you to stop worrying. Я хочу, чтобы ты прекратил волноваться.
4. the verbs denoting feeling and emotion: to like, to love, to dislike, to hate, cannot bear	<input type="checkbox"/> Tell me what you would like me to do. Скажи, что бы ты хотела, чтобы я сделал.
5. the verbs denoting order and permission: to order, to allow, to let, to command, to encourage, to ask for, to forbid In most cases after these verbs the Passive Infinitive is used.	<input type="checkbox"/> The colonel ordered his men to attack. Полковник приказал своим людям наступать. <input type="checkbox"/> The captain ordered the cases to be loaded. Капитан приказал погрузить ящики.

NB! If the "subject" of the verb and the infinitive is the same person or thing, the corresponding reflexive pronoun should be used.

- ☐ Он думал, что он прав. He thought himself to be right.

Известно, что лазер широко используется в медицине.

3. The Participle

3.1 Forms and Functions

	Active	Passive
Present Participle (Participle I)	asking	being asked
Past Participle (Participle II)	asked	—
Perfect Participle	having asked	having been asked

(for Irregular Verbs see Appendices 2, 3; for Spelling Rules see Appendix 4)

The Present Participle (Active and Passive) shows that the action named by the Participle takes place at the same time with that of the finite verb. These forms denote simultaneous action in the present, past or future.

- ☐ Do you see the child waving the flag?
- ☐ That day we stayed at home watching TV.
- ☐ In a few minutes the guests will be arriving wearing smiles and carrying presents.

The Past Participle has no tense distinctions; it has only one form which can express both an action simultaneous with and prior to the action expressed by the finite verb. In most cases it denotes priority or refers to no particular time.

- ☐ He is a man loved and admired by everybody.
- ☐ The dog carried by the child gave a sharp yelp.
- ☐ She took the long forgotten letter out of the bag.

The Perfect Participle (Active and Passive) shows that the action named by the Participle preceded that of the finite verb. Its forms denote the priority to a present, past or future action.

- ☐ Having explained everything, I want to tell you how sorry I am.
- ☐ Having finished the letter, he went to the post office.
- ☐ Having settled the problem, you will find something new to worry about.

NB!

1. A prior action is not always expressed by the Perfect Participle. The Present Participle is used even if priority is meant with some verbs:

- a) of sense perception: to see, to hear, to feel, to think, to find, etc.
 - ☐ Hearing footsteps, he rose and went to open the door.
Услышав шаги внизу, он встал и пошёл открывать дверь.
- b) of motion: to come, to arrive, to enter, to leave, etc.
 - ☐ Leaving the house, he went directly to the station.
Выйдя из дома, он отправился прямо на станцию.

- c) verbs associated with motion: to seize, to grasp, to open, to close, to put, to take, to look, to turn, etc.

2. If the actions denoted by the Participle and by the predicate closely follow each other, the Present Participle is used instead of the Perfect Participle:

- ☐ Seeing me, he smiled happily.
Увидев меня, он счастливо улыбнулся.

The Perfect Participle is used when there is a period of time between the two actions.

- ☐ Having seen her last before the war, he didn't recognize her.

The Participle has special forms to denote the Active and Passive Voice.

- ☐ When writing letters, he doesn't like to be disturbed.
- ☐ Being written in pencil, the letter was difficult to read.
- ☐ Having written the letter, he went to the post office.
- ☐ Having been written long ago, the manuscript was impossible to read.

Saturday. It was the day on which he had promised ⁽¹⁾..... his landlady (to pay). He had expected something ⁽²⁾..... up all through the week (to turn). Yet he had found no work. All he could do now was ⁽³⁾..... her that he could not pay the bill (to tell). But he did not have the courage ⁽⁴⁾..... the woman (to face). It was the middle of June. The night was warm. He made up his mind ⁽⁵⁾..... out (to stay). ⁽⁶⁾..... down the Embankment, he kept ⁽⁷⁾..... to himself that he had always tried ⁽⁸⁾..... what he thought best, but everything had gone wrong (to walk, to say, to do). He was ashamed of ⁽⁹⁾..... so many lies to his friends (to tell). It had been absurd ⁽¹⁰⁾..... his pride ⁽¹¹⁾..... him from ⁽¹²⁾..... for assistance (to let, to prevent, to ask). Now his lies made it impossible for him ⁽¹³⁾..... to anyone for help (to turn). But it was no good ⁽¹⁴⁾..... about it (to think).

II

When my sister Anne was six years old, I saved her from ⁽¹⁾..... (to kidnap). At the end of the war there were rumours about strange men who lured little children into quiet places with promises of toys and sweets, persuaded them into ⁽²⁾..... about their parents and if the parents turned out ⁽³⁾..... of no further interest to them, they usually left the children ⁽⁴⁾..... their way home in tears (to talk, to be, to find). So my parents spent a great deal of time ⁽⁵⁾..... Anne about ⁽⁶⁾..... to strange men (to warn, to talk). One day, Anne went out ⁽⁷⁾..... in the street after tea and could not be found an hour later (to play). We looked through ⁽⁸⁾..... streets but no one had seen her (to surround). My father went off in the car ⁽⁹⁾..... for her and I decided ⁽¹⁰⁾..... in the park (to look, to search). Some boys there told me that they had seen a small girl in a blue dress ⁽¹¹⁾..... a cricket match and someone else said that she had been seen ⁽¹²⁾..... off with a man who was pushing a bicycle (to watch, to walk). The chances were against this child ⁽¹³⁾..... my sister but I walked off in the direction in which they had been seen ⁽¹⁴⁾..... (to be, to walk). This brought me to a back alley. I called Anne's name and was surprised ⁽¹⁵⁾..... her voice ⁽¹⁶⁾..... back (to hear, to call).

THE PREPOSITION

1. Definition

Prepositions as a class of words are used to show how things are related in space or in time, they may express abstract relation and serve to connect the words in a sentence.

Accordingly, prepositions may be divided into prepositions of place and direction (under, next to, towards, through, etc.), prepositions of time (after, before, till, at, for, during, etc.) and those expressing abstract relations (by, with, because of, etc.).

There are many "small words" in English such as up, down, by, away, etc. They can be used as prepositions or adverbs. A preposition must have an object (a noun or a pronoun). Prepositions are always followed by a noun group:

- ☐ Across the road; over the wall; down the mountain.

An adverb does not need an object, so it is more closely related to a verb:

- ☐ Don't go near the fire! Stay away.
- ☐ We jumped back.

Prepositions	Adverbs
He went up the stairs.	I looked up and saw an airplane.
Before the war he lived in Kiev.	I've read this book before .
We'll go there after dinner.	I never saw him after .

Some prepositions consist of more than one word: in between, in front of, on top of, etc.

Many prepositions have more than one meaning and many express similar meanings.

NB! Note that most prepositions in the Russian language do not coincide with those in English.

THE COMPOUND SENTENCE AND THE COMPLEX SENTENCE

1. The Compound Sentence

It is a sentence which consists of two or more clauses coordinated with each other, each clause has a subject and a predicate of its own.

In a compound sentence the clauses may be connected:

a) by means of coordinating conjunctions: and, or, else (иначе), but or conjunctive adverbs: otherwise (иначе), however (однако), nevertheless (тем не менее), yet/still (всё-таки, тем не менее), therefore (поэтому):

- ☐ He went to his study but he couldn't work.
- ☐ There was no news, nevertheless she went on hoping.
- ☐ She's vain (тщеславна) and foolish and yet people like her.
- ☐ He has treated you badly: still, he's your brother and you ought to help him.
- ☐ Do what you've been told, otherwise you'll be punished.
- ☐ He was mistaken, however he went on doing his way.

b) without a conjunction:

- ☐ The rain fell softly, the house was quiet.

Some conjunctions are used in pairs (correlatively): both ... and, either ... or, neither ... nor, not only ... but (also).

These conjunctions are more widely used in simple sentences but sometimes they can be used in compound sentences:

- ☐ He is either in Paris or in London.
- ☐ Either you're lying or he must be an absolute wimp.

2. The Complex Sentence

A complex sentence is a hierarchical structure which consists of an independent (main) clause and one or more dependent (subordinate) clauses. The subordinate clauses may function grammatically as a subject, object, predicative, attribute or adverbial modifier in a main clause. The subordinate clauses are generally introduced by subordinating conjunctions and connectives. These conjunctions and connectives are often polysemantic and multifunctional, which may cause confusion in usage and understanding. We shall consider here only those types of sentences and connectives which may present some difficulties in understanding and translating.

A subordinate clause may follow, precede or interrupt the main clause:

- ☐ I asked him why he had come.
- ☐ Since it was Saturday, he didn't go to his office.
- ☐ The man who lives next door is very friendly.

2.1 Subject Clauses

Subordinate subject clauses perform the function of a subject to the predicate of the main clause. Subject clauses are introduced by the following connectives:

that	– то, что
what	– то, что; что ... , так это ...
if, whether	– частица ли после сказуемого в предложении-подлежащем
who	– кто; тот, кто
whoever	– кто бы ни ...; всякий, кто
which	– кто из; который из
whatever	– всё, что; что бы ни
where	– то, где; вопрос о том, где; то, куда; вопрос о том, куда
when	– то, когда; вопрос о том, когда
why	– то, почему; вопрос о том, почему
how	– то, как; вопрос о том, как
how + adjective	– насколько + прилагательное

- ☐ That he will never agree to this plan is absolutely clear. – То, что он никогда не согласится с этим планом, совершенно ясно.
- ☐ Whether he will agree to join us is not quite clear. – Ещё не совсем ясно, согласится ли он присоединиться к нам.
- ☐ What was done could not be undone. – Что сделано, того уже не исправить.
- ☐ Who her mother was, was the question. – Кто был её матерью – вот вопрос.
- ☐ When we shall start is uncertain. – Когда мы отправимся, неизвестно.
- ☐ Whoever is elected Prime Minister, lives at 10 Downing Street. – Кто бы ни был избран премьер-министром, он живёт на Даунинг-стрит, 10.
- ☐ How important it is to start the work right away is clear to everybody. – Всем ясно, насколько важно начать эту работу немедленно.

NOTES:

1. When a subject clause is placed at the end of a sentence, it is introduced by the introductory it:
 - ☐ It is surprising how your voice hasn't changed.

In these cases, subordinate subject clauses can be introduced without any connectives:

- ☐ It is a pity you are leaving.

2. Usually, subject clauses are not separated from the main clause by a comma.

2.2 Predicative Clauses

A subordinate predicative clause together with the link-verb in the main clause form a compound nominal predicate to the subject of the main clause. The connectives introducing predicative clauses are the same as in subject clauses.

- This decision is what we have been hoping for. – Это решение – как раз то, на что мы надеялись.
- But his chief trouble was that he did not know any editor or writer. – Но главная его проблема заключалась в том, что он не знал ни одного редактора или писателя.

As a rule, predicative clauses are not separated by a comma.

Sometimes we need to translate the link-verb to be into Russian. The recommended ways to do it are:

состоит в том, что ...
представляет собой то, что ...
является тем, что ...
это то, что ...

2.3 Object Clauses

Object clauses perform the function of an object to the predicate-verb of the main clause:

- ☐ I don't know what you're talking about.
- ☐ He told us that he felt ill.

1. Object clauses are connected to the main clause in the following ways:

- a) by means of conjunctions that, if, whether:
 - ☐ Time will show whether I'm right or wrong.
 - ☐ The policeman inquired if I had a driving licence.
- b) by means of the connectives who, which, what, whatever, whoever, whichever, where, when, how, why, etc.:

 - ☐ I found out who had done it.

2.4 Attributive Clauses

Attributive clauses serve as attribute to a noun (pronoun) in the main clause. According to their meaning and the way they are connected with the main clause, they are divided into relative and appositive ones.

Attributive relative clauses qualify the nouns or pronouns.

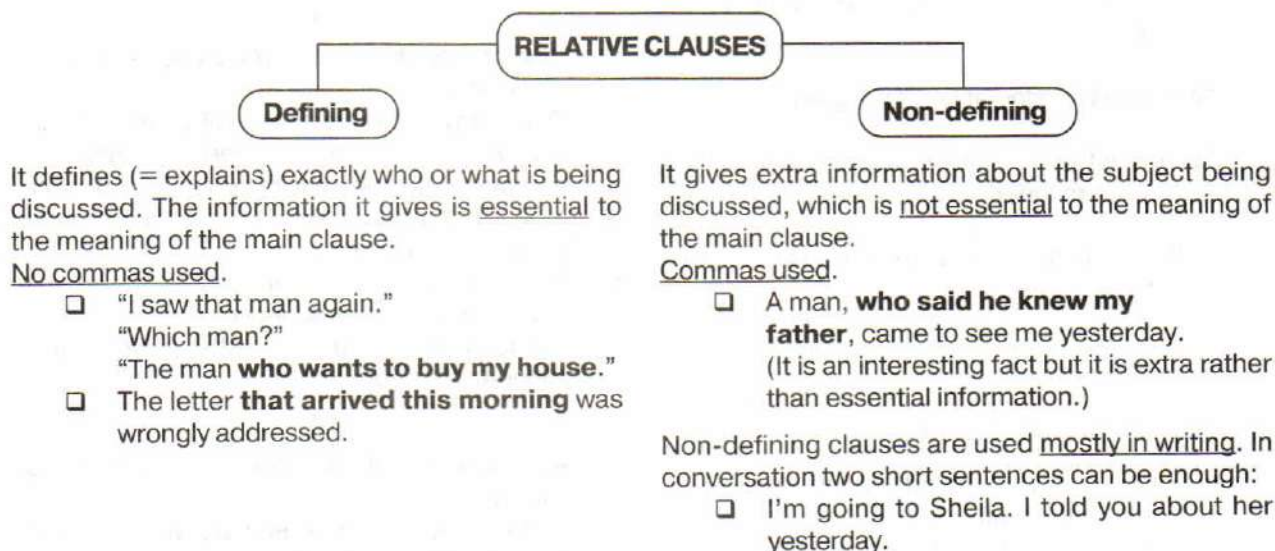

Attributive appositive clauses disclose their meaning.

- ❑ The facts those men were so eager to know were visible. (attributive relative clause)
- ❑ The fact that the rector's letter didn't require an immediate answer would give him time to think. (attributive appositive clause)

Relative clauses are introduced with:

- a) relative pronouns (who(m), which, whose, that):
 - ❑ The scientist who/whom/that we met during the conference was from Germany.
 - ❑ A cellular phone is something that/which we use for communication.
- b) relative adverbs (when, where, why)
 - ❑ The house where I was born is quite old.

2.4.1 Defining and Non-Defining Relative Clauses

2.4.2 Subject and Object Relative Clauses

- | | |
|---|--|
| ❑ The man who normally works here is ill. Main clause: The man is ill. Clause: who normally works here. = he normally works here. "he" is the subject so this is a subject relative clause. | ❑ The man you saw yesterday is ill. Main clause: The man is ill. Clause: who you saw yesterday. = you saw him yesterday. "him" is the object so this is an object relative clause. |
|---|--|

Subject Relative Clauses

- ❑ The thing [that really surprised me] was his attitude.
- ❑ The woman [who lives next door] is very friendly.

Object Relative Clauses

- ❑ The thing [that I really liked about her] was her kindness.
- ❑ The woman [who you met yesterday] lives next door.

You can omit (пропустить) that, who or which when they are the object of the verb in the relative clause:

- ❑ The woman you met yesterday lives next door.
- ❑ The thing I really liked about her was her kindness.

Prepositions are usually not used before relative pronouns. They come after the verb + object:

- ❑ It's the book (that/which) I told you about.

Prepositions are put before relative pronouns in formal style. In this case that cannot be used:

- ❑ It's the book about which I told you.

Relative Pronouns in Defining and Non-Defining Clauses

CLAUSE		PERSON	THING/ANIMAL
Defining	Subject	who (or that)	that (or which)
	Object	– (or who(m)/that)	– (or that/which)
Non-defining	Subject	, who ... ,	, which ... ,
	Object	, who(m) ... ,	, which ... ,

NOTES:

- In the table the words in brackets are possible alternatives to the relative pronouns or to omitted pronouns but they are less common.
- Whom is used only in formal English.
- Objects defining relative clauses do not normally need who or that.
- Where, when, why can also be used to introduce defining and non-defining relative clauses:
 - ❑ We visited the town where I was born. (defining)
 - ❑ I bought them at the supermarket where I met Mrs. Butler. (non-defining)
 - ❑ There must be a reason why you said that.
- That is used with words such as all, every(thing), some(thing), any(thing), no(thing), none, few, little, much, only and with the superlative form:
 - ❑ This is all (that) we can do for you.
 - ❑ The only thing that was important for him was his work.

WHEN THE RAILWAY ARRIVED

It was a village ⁽¹⁾..... population had little sense of time until the railway arrived. After that, it was not the sun but the trains ⁽²⁾..... villagers noted to keep time. Most people ⁽³⁾..... lived along the line knew the timetables approximately: the train ⁽⁴⁾..... arrived at 8.19 was called the Eight, the one ⁽⁵⁾..... left at 11.37 was the Twelve, and so on. Anyone ⁽⁶⁾..... wanted to catch the train got to the station at least half an hour before the train.

Most of the trains were "mixed" trains, ⁽⁷⁾..... carried both passengers and goods. On the evening train, a driver ⁽⁸⁾..... name was Bill Maindy often gave whistling performances from the locomotive. If the owls answered back, Bill stayed even after it was time for the train to leave.

The locomotives ⁽⁹⁾..... the railway company used were quite unequal to the work, ⁽¹⁰⁾..... required trains ⁽¹¹⁾..... had good brakes. Coming down the hill from Bovey, trains often passed the station; and passengers ⁽¹²⁾..... wanted to get off had to walk back.

Apart from stopping at the stations, drivers stopped at places ⁽¹³⁾..... were famous for their heather honey, ⁽¹⁴⁾..... is still a great favourite round here. Most villagers, ⁽¹⁵⁾..... worried little about time anyway, merely shouted loud comments while the guard got out and fixed the hives.

BRITAIN BEFORE THE ROMANS

About the year 5000 BC, the waters the English Channel and the North Sea joined together and Britain became an island.

The human population of the new island at that time was a few hundreds ⁽¹⁾..... But at the very time ⁽²⁾....., a revolution was occurring thousands of miles away in the Near East, ⁽³⁾..... He was learning not merely to hunt and kill for his food, but to keep the animals ⁽⁴⁾..... He was learning, too, to gather the seeds of the grasses and scatter them about him to grow into the food ⁽⁵⁾ He was learning, in short, to be a farmer. Men with this new knowledge did not cross the still widening waters between Europe and Britain until about 2300 BC. And when they came they had to keep to the chalky and sandy soils where they could turn the ground over for their seeds to grow. So the area ⁽⁶⁾ was very limited.

These first settlers on the chalk ridges were men ⁽⁷⁾ They crossed it only if they had to and they crossed it where it was narrowest. But there were others ⁽⁸⁾ – men living along the coasts of Spain or Brittany. When they crossed, it was where the English Channel was wider. The settlements of these people can be distinguished today by their remarkable burial places ⁽⁹⁾

It was about the year 900 BC that a large westward movement of races on the European continent produced another invasion of Britain, by a people ⁽¹⁰⁾ These were the Celts, and they spoke a language ⁽¹¹⁾

(from A History of England by J. Thorn, R. Lockyer & D. Smith)

- They lived by hunting with roughly made stone instrument.
- This separation of Britain from the continent was taking place.
- It was to change for ever the life of man.
- The animals provided food in captivity (неволя).
- He wanted to make food.
- They settled on this area.
- To them the sea was a natural barrier.
- For them the sea had fewer terrors.

But he was perfectly happy and was always singing with joy, and when the day came to an end, he slept soundly. A rich banker, lived in a large house opposite, and was so far from being happy that when the day ended, he would not sleep for thinking of all the money, and was disturbed early in the morning by the cobbler One day he sent over to the cobbler a present of a hundred pounds At first the cobbler was overjoyed but he soon began to lose his cheerfulness. He began to be afraid that someone would steal his gold and began to lose his sleep through the fear that someone might come into his room His songs ceased and at last he felt he could bear it no longer, so seizing the bag of gold , he went to the banker and throwing down the money exclaimed, "Take back the hundred pounds and leave me my happiness , for my happiness is all"

2.5 Adverbial Clauses

Adverbial clauses refer to a verb, an adjective or an adverb of the main clause in the function of an adverbial modifier. Adverbial clauses are connected with the main clause by means of subordinating conjunctions and connectives. Some conjunctions are polysemantic and can introduce different types of adverbial clauses, which may be confusing. Besides, many English conjunctions, prepositions and adverbs are identical in form, which also may create some difficulties in understanding the meaning of a sentence. It is necessary to differentiate them by their functions.

Prepositions connect phrases to the words they modify:

- ❑ After the presentation the guests will be able to buy some products.

Subordinating conjunctions connect clauses to the words they modify:

- ❑ After the presentation is over, the guests will be able to buy some products.
- ❑ Once the performance starts, they will not allow entrance.

The adverb, unlike the preposition and conjunction, is a part of the sentence – an adverbial modifier:

- ❑ Once the towns were independent entities.

2.5.1 Time Clauses

We use time clauses to say when something happens.

Time clause are introduced by conjunctions when, after, before, while, till, until, as, since, as soon as, as long as.

NB! The verb in the time clause can be in the present or past tense. We never use a future tense in a time clause, we use one of the present tenses instead:

- ☐ I'll look after the children while she goes to London.
- ☐ I'll do it when I've finished writing this letter.

No commas are used when the time clause follows the main clause, if it proceeds the main clause, it is separated from it by a comma:

- ☐ When he had finished reading, he looked up.

a) When, as, while are used to say that two events happen at the same time (в то время как...).

- ☐ We arrived when they were leaving.
- ☐ She wept as he told us the story.
- ☐ John arrived while we were watching the film.

b) When one event happens before or after another event, we use the conjunctions after, as soon as, before, when (как только), as long as (пока, до тех пор, пока...):

- ☐ Can I see you before we go, Helen?
- ☐ As soon as we get tickets, we'll call you.

c) When we want to say that something happens when a situation ends, we use a time clause with till or until and a present or past tense:

- ☐ We'll support them till they find work.
- ☐ They waited until he had gone.

NB! After till/until no negation is used as the conjunctions till and until are negative in meaning.

d) A clause introduced by since denotes the starting point of the action (situation) described in the main clause. We use the Past Simple or the Past Perfect in the time clause; the Present or Past Perfect in the main clause.

- ☐ I've been in politics since I was at university.
- ☐ Janine had been busy ever since she had heard the news.

e) Time clauses are sometimes introduced by phrases: at the time (в то время когда), by the time (that) (к тому времени когда), the moment (в тот момент когда), the day (в тот день когда), the next time (в следующий раз когда):

- ☐ The moment I saw him I understood that something had happened.
- ☐ I'll ask him about it the next time I see him.
- ☐ I was informed about it the day I arrived in Moscow.

f)

ПОКА

- while «в то время как»
- as long as «до тех пор пока»
- before «прежде чем»
- till/until «пока не»

- ☐ While I slept, it rained.
- ☐ He read as long as the lamp burned.
- ☐ He worked hard before he reached his goal.
- ☐ He won't stop until he achieves good results.

indicates the longer situation which started before the shorter event and perhaps went on after it:

- ☐ As they were driving along the main road, they saw a broken car smashed into a shop window. (когда)

AS  is used to talk about two developing situations:

- ☐ As the city grew, more and more people were attracted to the new capital. (по мере того как; в то время как) is used to say that two short actions both happened at the same time:

- ☐ Just as he passed under the window, the lights in the room went off. (в то самое время)

2.5.4 Purpose and Reason Clauses

Purpose Clauses

We use a purpose clause to say what one's intention is when he/she does something.

Purpose clauses are introduced by conjunctions so, so as to, so that, in order that (чтобы, для того чтобы).

A purpose clause usually comes after a main clause. The most common type of purpose clauses contains a modal verb and is introduced by so that:

- ☐ I have drawn a diagram so that my explanation will be clear.

- ☐ She said she wanted tea ready at six so that she could be out by eight.
- ☐ Father lifted Philip onto his shoulder so that he might see the procession.

To make a purpose clause negative, we use "so that ... won't/wouldn't":

- ☐ I hurried so that I wouldn't be late.

Reason Clauses

We use a reason clause when we want to explain why one does something or why it happens. It is introduced by conjunctions because (потому что), since or as (так как, поскольку):

- ☐ Since it was Saturday, he stayed at home.
- ☐ As he had been up since 4 a.m., he was very tired.

As- and *since-*clauses can be used to give the reason for an action or situation. They are used when the reason is already well known or is less important than the rest of the sentence. Since is a little more formal than as:

- ☐ Since you refuse to pay, we shall be forced to take legal action.
- ☐ As I had no money with me, I didn't pay him.

When the reason is the most important part of the sentence because is generally used. Because-clauses usually come at the end of the sentence:

- ☐ You will never learn because you are idle.
- ☐ You want to know why I didn't tell you? I didn't tell you because I forgot, simply.

For suggests that the reason is given as an explanation for the action, as an afterthought. For-clauses never come at the beginning of the sentence:

- ☐ I know what we shall have for dinner, for I have seen the menu.

In a formal and literary style for is used to indicate the reason for mentioning what has been said previously:

- ☐ The visitors will be well content to walk around at their own pace. For it is a long day's walk and the scenery is very enjoyable.

2.5.6 Contrast Clauses

We use contrast clauses when we want to make two statements and one of the statements makes the other seem surprising.

Contrast clauses are introduced by conjunctions: although, though, even though:

- ☐ Although he was late, he stopped to buy a newspaper.
- ☐ She finished the race, even though she had a bad fall.

Sometimes the words still, nevertheless or just the same are used in the main clause to add emphasis to the contrast:

- ☐ Although I was shocked, I still couldn't blame him.
- ☐ Although she hated them, she agreed to help them all the same.

We can also use despite the fact that or in spite of the fact that to form a contrast clause. In spoken English it is possible to omit that:

- ☐ They ignored his order, in spite of the fact that they would probably get into trouble.
- ☐ He insisted on playing, in spite of the fact he had a bad cold.

NOTES:

- To render the same idea we can use
in spite of | + noun/pronoun or -ing
☐ Although the traffic was bad, I arrived on time.
☐ In spite of the traffic, I arrived on time.
☐ I couldn't sleep, though I was very tired.
☐ I couldn't sleep despite being tired.
- We use in spite of but despite without "of".
☐ In spite of poor health, my father was always cheerful.
☐ Despite the difference in their ages, they were close friends.
- Even though* is a stronger form of although.
☐ Even though I was really tired, I couldn't sleep.

EMPHASIS

In the English language there is a variety of ways to emphasize the meaning of certain parts of a sentence. We shall deal here with those that may cause some difficulty in understanding and interpreting the meaning of the sentence: emphatic do; double negation; emphatic constructions "it is ... that/which/who/whom"; "it was not until ... that"; the emphatic phrase "not ... till/until".

1. The Emphatic "Do"

The verb do is used to emphasize the predicate of the sentence. It is placed right before the predicate in the required grammatical form while the predicate is in the form of the Infinitive without to:

- ❑ We waited and waited and finally he did come. – Мы все ждали и ждали, и наконец он всё-таки пришёл.
- ❑ She did learn to drive at the age of 65. – Она действительно научилась водить машину в возрасте 65 лет.

- ❑ He does know a lot about the ocean. – Он на самом деле много знает об океане.
- ❑ She does talk a lot, doesn't she? – Она и правда много говорит.

NOTE: the verb do in these cases is always said with strong stress.

2. Double Negation

The particle not before a negative adjective or adverb serves to emphasize the positive meaning of the adjective or adverb. Such phrases are usually rendered in Russian by means of the combinations «довольно, весьма, вполне» + прилагательное (наречие):

not unusual – вполне обычный not impossible – весьма возможный not infrequently – довольно часто

This construction is a grammatical means to emphasize a certain part of a sentence. The emphasized part is placed between it and that and the whole sentence is a complex one. Russian sentences corresponding in meaning to such constructions are usually simple, with emphatic words before the emphasized part of the sentence. Sometimes, in Russian sentences these emphasized parts are placed at the end.

- ☐ It is always the unusual which alarms.

Appendix 6

American English

There are a few grammatical differences between British and American English:

1. In American English the Past Simple is often used to give new information or to announce a recent happening:
☐ I lost my key. Can you help me look for it?
The Past Simple is used with just and already:
☐ I'm not hungry. I just had lunch.
☐ "Don't forget to post the letter." – "I already posted it".
 Americans use the Past Simple with yet:
☐ I didn't tell them about the accident yet.
2. In American English the forms I have/I don't have/do you have? are more usual than I've got/I haven't got/have you got?:
☐ We have a new car.
☐ Do you have any change?
3. These verbs (burn, learn, etc.) are normally regular in American English: burned, learned, etc.
4. The Past Participle of get is gotten in American English:
☐ Your English has gotten much better since I last saw you.

Appendix 7

Punctuation

• FULL STOP (US = PERIOD)

Used to mark the end of a sentence:

Edward walked briskly into the hotel. The receptionist looked at him coldly.

Also ⇒ Letters and Abbreviations below.

? QUESTION MARK

1. Used at the end of a direct question:

Who was the first to arrive?

(Note. It is not used at the end of an indirect question: He asked who had been the first to arrive.)

2. Used in parentheses to express doubt:

He was born in 1550(?) and died in 1613.

! EXCLAMATION MARK (US: ALSO EXCLAMATION POINT)

Used at the end of a sentence or remark expressing a high degree of anger, amazement or other strong emotion:

"What a wonderful surprise!" she cried.

Get out of here and never come back!

(Note. Beware of over-using exclamation marks or including them where the emotion is only mild.)

, COMMA

1. Used to separate the items in lists of words, phrases or clauses:

Red, pink, yellow and white roses filled the huge vases.

If you take your time, stay calm, concentrate and think ahead, you'll pass your driving test.

2. Sometimes used after a subordinate adverbial clause or after a phrase which comes before the main clause. It is essential after longer clauses and phrases, and to avoid ambiguity:

When the sun is shining brightly above, the world seems a happier place.

In the summer of 1984, many trees died.

3. Used after a non-finite or verbless clause, at the beginning of a sentence:

To get there on time, she left half an hour early.

Happy and contented, the cat fell asleep.

4. Used to separate an introductory or transitional word or phrase (e.g. therefore, however, by the way, for instance) from the rest of the sentence:

Yes, it certainly had been an eventful day.

In fact, I don't even know her name.

Driving on icy roads can be dangerous and one should, therefore, be very careful.

5. Used before and after any element (e.g. a dependent clause, a comment) which interrupts the sentence:

The fire, although it had been burning for several hours, was still blazing fiercely.

You should, indeed you must, report the matter to the police.

6. Used before and after a non-defining relative clause or a phrase in apposition, which gives more information about the noun it follows:

The Pennine Hills, which have been a favourite with hikers for many years, are situated between Lancashire and Yorkshire.

Queen Elizabeth II, a very popular monarch, celebrated her Silver Jubilee in 1977.

(Note. No commas are used around a relative clause that defines the noun it follows: The hills that separate Lancashire from Yorkshire are called the Pennines.)

7. Sometimes used to separate main clauses linked by a conjunction (e.g. and, as, but, for, or), especially when the first clause is long:

We had been looking forward to meeting Sarah's husband, but discovered that he was not as pleasant as we had hoped.

Also ⇒ Conversation and Letters below.

: COLON

1. (Formal) Used after a main clause where the following statement illustrates or explains the content of that clause. It may be replaced by a semicolon or a full stop:

The garden had been neglected for a long time: it was overgrown and full of weeds.

2. Used before a long list, and often introduced by phrases such as: such as; for example; for instance; in the following examples; as follows:

Your first aid kit should include the following items: cotton wool, lint, antiseptic lotion, sticking plaster, bandages and safety pins.

Also ⇒ Letters and Quotations below.

; SEMICOLON

1. (Formal) Used to separate main clauses, not (usually) joined by a conjunction, which are considered so closely connected as to belong to one sentence:

*The sun was setting now; the shadows were long.
He had never been to Russia before; however, it had always been one of his life-long ambitions.*

2. Used instead of a comma to separate from each other parts of a sentence that are already separated by commas:

There are two facts to consider: first, the weather; second, the expense.

- DASH

1. (Colloq.) Used instead of a colon or a semicolon to make the writing more vivid or dramatic:

Sirens blared, men shouted, and people crowded in to witness the scene – it was chaos.

So you've been lying to me for years and years – how can I ever trust you again?

2. (Colloq.) Used singly or in pairs to separate extra information, an afterthought or a comment, in a vivid or dramatic way, from the rest of the sentence:

Schooldays are the happiest days of our lives – or so we are told.

Schooldays – or so we are told – are the happiest days of our lives.

(Note. In more formal usage, parentheses or commas replace dashes.)

Also ⇒ Conversation below.

() PARENTHESES (GB: ALSO BRACKETS)

1. Used to separate extra information, an afterthought or a comment from the rest of the sentence:

Schooldays (so we are told) are the happiest days of our lives.

He said he'd never seen the sea before (but I think he was joking).

2. Used to enclose cross-references:

The abacus (see the picture on page 1) is used for teaching numbers to children.

" QUOTATION MARKS (GB: ALSO INVERTED COMMAS)

(Note. In GB usage they are usually single: 'Fire!' In US usage they are usually double: "Fire!")

Used around a slang or technical term when it is in a context in which it is not usually found, or around a word to which the writer wishes to draw particular attention:

Next, the clay pot had to be 'fired'.

He called himself a 'gentleman' but you would never have thought so from the way he behaved.

Also ⇒ Conversation and Quotations below.

- HYPHEN

(Note. It must not be confused with the dash, which separates parts of a sentence. The hyphen is half the length of the dash.)

1. Sometimes used to form a compound word from two other words: hard-hearted; radio-telescope; fork-lift truck.

2. Used to form a compound word from a prefix and a proper name: pre-Raphaelite; pro-Soviet; anti-Nazi.

3. Used to form a compound word from two other words which are separated by a preposition: mother-in-law; mother-to-be; mother-of-pearl; out-of-date.

4. (Esp. GB) Sometimes used to separate a prefix ending in a vowel from a word beginning with that same vowel: co-ordination; re-elect; pre-eminent.

APOSTROPHE

1. Used with 's' to indicate the possessive:

Singular noun: the dog's [dɒgz] bone.

Singular noun ending in 's': the princess's [prɪn'sesɪz] smile.

Singular proper noun ending in 's' (two possible forms): King Charles's ['tʃɑ:lɪzɪz] crown, King Charles' ['tʃɑ:lɪzɪz] crown.

Plural noun: students' ['stju:dənts] books.

Irregular plural: men's [menz] jackets.

2. Used in a contracted form to indicate the omission of letters or figures:

I'm (= I am); he's (= he is/has); they'd (= they would/had). In '87 (= 1987).

3. Used with 's' to form the plural of a letter, a figure or an abbreviation, when these are used as proper words. In modern usage it is often omitted after a figure or a capital letter:

In the 1960's or in the 1960s. MP's or MPs. He can't pronounce his r's.

4. Used with 's' to form the plural of a word (e.g. a preposition or a conjunction) that does not usually have a plural:

No if's or but's – just do as I say.

ABBREVIATIONS

1. A full stop may end an abbreviation or a person's initials, although this is becoming less common, especially in GB usage:

Mr. R. S. H. Smith or Mr R S H Smith.

2. When the abbreviation consists of capitals, it is common GB usage to omit the full stops: UN, WHO, BCC.

3. The omission of full stops in a lower case abbreviation is less common: i.e., p.m., e.g., or ie, pm, eg.

4. If the abbreviation includes the last letter of the word, it is usual in GB usage to omit the full stop: Mr, Dr, St, Rd.

5. To form the plural of capital letter abbreviations, add a lower case 's or s: MP's or MPs, TV's or TVs.

CONVERSATION

1. A new indented paragraph is begun with each new speaker.

2. Quotation marks enclose all words and punctuation in direct speech:

"What on earth did you do that for?" he asked.

3. Introductory words (e.g. he said, she cried, they answered) are separated from the actual words spoken by commas if no other punctuation mark (e.g. question mark, exclamation mark) is used:

John said, "That's all I know." "That's all I know", said John. "That", said John, "is all I know."

"Why?" asked John.

4. A comma separates a question tag from the rest of the sentence:

"You knew he'd come, didn't you?"

5. A mild interjection or the direct use of a name is separated from the rest of the sentence by a comma:

"Oh, so that's what he wanted." (BUT: "Oh no! I don't believe you!")

"Well, Peter, I did my best." (BUT: "Peter! Look out!")

6. Hesitant or interrupted speech can be indicated by dashes:

"Can I – I mean, would you mind if I came too?"

"You'll find it in – were his dying words."

7. Speech within speech is shown by (GB usage) double quotation marks inside single marks, or (US usage) single quotation marks within double marks:

'When the judge said, "Not guilty," I could have hugged him.' (GB)

"When the judge said, 'Not guilty,' I could have hugged him." (US)

QUOTATIONS

1. The quotation is separated from its introduction by a colon and is enclosed by quotation marks:

It was Disraeli who said: "Little things affect little minds."

2. If a word or phrase is omitted from the quotation, this is indicated by a row of three dots (...):

"The condition of man ... is a condition of war of everyone against everyone." (Thomas Hobbes)

Also ⇒ Conversation above.

LETTERS

1. A business letter is set out as shown below. The punctuation marks are optional. The address of the person who is writing the letter is in the top right-hand corner; the address of the person to whom the letter is being written is in the top left-hand corner, but below the address of the sender:

3 Willow Street,
Frambleton,
Suffolk.
SF5 9PK.
6th June, 1984.

Mr D. B. Taylor.
Metalwork Ltd,
Booth Street,
Ormskirk,
Lancashire.
LC14 3JQ.

Dear Mr Taylor,
Thank you for...

Yours faithfully/sincerely/(US) truly,
[signature]
Mary Burton.

2. In US usage, a colon is substituted for the comma in the salutation, except informally:

Dear Ms Burton: but Dear Mary,

3. In an informal letter, only the address of the sender is necessary, the optional punctuation is more likely to be omitted, and Yours sincerely, etc. is replaced by a more friendly or personal phrase, e.g. Yours, Yours affectionately, With best / warm wishes, With love.
